Townsend And Aides Indicted For Contempt of House

OLD AGE PENSION LEADER AND TWO HELPERS ACCUSED

Wunder and Kiefer Named for Refusal to Testify to House Committee.

WASHINGTON. (UP). Dr. Francis E. Townsend and two lieutenants in his $200 a month old age pension organization, were indicted by the District of Columbia grand jury on charges of contempt of the U. S. house of representatives. The charges resulted from their refusal to testify before a house investigating committee.

The indictments, returned many months after the elderly doctor stalked angrily out of the committee's hearing, named Townsend, Dr. Clinton Wunder and John B. Kiefer.

The latter were directors of the New York and Chicago regions of Old Age Revolving Pensions, ltd., the Townsend organization. They refused to answer committee subpoenas after Townsend instructed them to ignore the investigation.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Harry L. Underwood said no bench warrant will be issued for arrest of Townsend and his lieutenants. Word of the indictment will be communicated to Townsend's attorney, former Senator Hardwick of Georgia, who has agreed, it was said, to produce his clients voluntarily for arraignment.

CONTINUOUS REVISION STATE LAWS IS URGED

Attorney George Mann Hopes Unicameral Legislature Will Provide It.

George R. Mann, Lincoln attorney, urged continuous and much more extensive revision and annotation of Nebraska statutes and advocated creation of the office of "reviser of statute" when he spoke before the Barristers at the University club Thursday noon. He declared that efforts at voluntary topical revision between legislative sessions have failed and said, "It is sincerely to be hoped that the first unicameral legislature will devote some time and attention to remedying this defect."

The speaker asserted, "All persons are presumed to know the law and be responsible for their acts. That presumption is legal fiction. The fact is that no one can know all the law. To make the fact of knowledge approach as nearly as possible to the presumption, the 1937 Nebraska state legislature should make some provision for a continuous revision and annotation of the general laws of Nebraska, as Wisconsin did in 1909, so that the law shall be as planned, certain and simple as possible and easily accessible."

Mann said that the unicameral legislature, "if it is to function effectively," requires a permanent organization. He said that a new volume of revised Nebraska statutes should be prepared every ten years. The proposed statute reviser's office could practically eliminate use of the "implied repeal" clause on acts of the legislature, he said, and the office could be a clearing house for suggestions of revision and change of any kind.

Mann declared himself against any radical changes in statute structure. He said that changes proper in revision have to do with conflicts and duplication, with redundancy, tautology, verbosity, prolixity, circumlocution; with details of administration practice; with obsolete provisions, with ambiguities, obscurities, omissions, incompleteness and technical defects."

BRITISH PRESSES BUSY

People Snap Up Newspapers With Romance News.

LONDON. (AP). Thundering and roaring at top speed, the great presses of London's daily newspapers were unable to supply the demand for news about the world's most important triangle—King Edward, his American born friend, Mrs. Wallis Simpson, and Prime Minister Baldwin. Never since the announcement of the Armistice ending the World war, news dealers said, have the inhabitants of London been so excited about a news story or have news vendors done such a rushing business.

Street salesmen sold out their copies within a few blocks of newspaper offices and hastened back to stand in line for more.

The demand was so great only a few of the first editions reached the suburbs. News boys actually shouted their wares full throatedly in the American way instead of standing glumly displaying news placards after their usual fashion.

Bishop Blunt's Remark Brought Crisis to Open

The self-imposed censorship of the British press over the friendship of King Edward and Mrs. Wallis Simpson was lifted in support of the criticism of the monarch's private life by Dr. A. W. F. Blunt, bishop of Bradford.—A. P.

PRESIDENT SEES NEW ERA OF FRIENDSHIPS

Says the Need for Better Communications Between Americas Evident.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay. (AP). President Roosevelt declared "a new era of friendship and confidence among the Americas" was born at the Pan-American conference here three years ago.

Addressing a luncheon given for him by President Gabriel Terra and Senora Terra after an enthusiastic reception by Montevideo's populace and officialdom, the United States executive declared:

"I believe that when history comes to be written the origin of the new American era will be placed here in the memorable year 1933.

"Truly, it is an inspiration for the average citizen of all our republics that that conference is giving back its fruits in terms of achievement for the people of the world."

"During the past week," Mr. Roosevelt said, "I have become certain of this because I have seen in the faces of the men, women and children in Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires and, today, in Montevideo, a joyful expression of hope and faith which can and will inspire us, their chosen representatives, to even greater activity in the common cause."

He expressed hope that President Terra and his wife would visit him and Mrs. Roosevelt in Washington. He had extended a similar invitation to President Justo of Argentina and Mrs. Justo during his visit in Buenos Aires.

Arriving at 9:56 a. m., Mr. Roosevelt stepped from the Indianapolis into the outstretched arms of President Terra.

Thousands who lined the streets thru which the two presidents drove showered flowers on the procession.

The United States president left at 4 p. m. to start his journey northward.

He told President Terra and the others he had been "impressed with the immediate need for better and quicker services of travel and communication between North and South America."

He hopes for the day when the journey "will be so simple that tens of thousands of our citizens will meet each other in friendly intercourse every year."

Discussing questions of social life, transportation, science and finance, President Roosevelt declared he believed "the founders of our government would look with approval on what we are seeking to do to use the processes of democratic government in solving the new problems."

"We have not completed our task," he said. "In accordance with the objectives and theory of democratic government, that task is a continuing one.

"We learn, and ought to learn, much from each other much that is good and some things which, from experience, we must avoid."

FOUR PEN GUARDS RELEASED AFTER ATTEMPTED BREAK

Release of four penitentiary guards and citation for "unusual bravery" of another were announced Thursday morning by Warden O'Grady as result of the attempted prison break of John Giles and John Larimore last Monday. Two wall guards, one yard man and one cell house man have been released the warden said, and have been replaced with experienced men.

Louis Kreuger, guard who was badly injured while resisting the convicts as they accosted him in the lower tier of cells, was credited by the penitentiary board with frustrating the men's try for freedom. The board passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, Louis Kreuger, west cell house guard at the state penitentiary, frustrated an attempted outbreak of convicts John Giles and John Larimore on the morning of Nov. 30, 1936, and whereas it is believed that due to the quick action and unusual bravery of the said Louis Kreuger, at the expense of his own personal safety, the two convicts were prevented from escaping, therefore be it resolved that the board of control cite the said Louis Kreuger for his services and authorize the warden of the penitentiary to raise his salary to $85 per month as a mark of appreciation by the state for such faithful service."

Kreuger's former salary was $79.16 per month.

The new men are:

Claude Hutton, 30, Palmyra, who is assigned to the cell house. He was previously a guard at the penitentiary for four years but quit last March to farm.

Walter Rowden, 47, of Lincoln, former night police captain, who is also assigned to the cell house. Rowden has had about a year of experience as a pen guard, having quit just this fall.

C. A. Gerdes, 51, Lincoln, who has been a guard at the state hospital for the past four years. Gerdes will work on the wall.

George Letto, Ansley, 50, president of the Ayrshire Breeders association, who will be in charge of the penitentiary cattle herd and will also serve as a guard. He has had no guard experience but is an experienced herdsman.

CIRCUIT COURT REVERSAL

Stock Sale Case Revived in Mandate Received.

The U. S. circuit court of appeals has reversed and remanded to the U. S. district court, Lincoln division, the case of Meredith H. Greene, Kansas City, against William K. Keithley and Rue H. Frans, both of Syracuse, Neb., and Harry W. Elliott of Lincoln. Plaintiff sued to recover $1,670 allegedly paid by him for 88½ shares in the "Elliott 12-Way Syndicate" at $20 per share also to recover $10,000 exemplary damages.

Plaintiff charges that defendants entered into a conspiracy to defraud him, claiming to own large producing oil wells, two of which were delivering 40,000 barrels each daily. He contends that the shares proved worthless.

The U. S. district court dismissed because of lack of jurisdiction and for absence of a sufficient amount in controversy. The circuit court remands with directions to set aside order of dismissal and to reinstate, also directing that Greene recover from Keithley and Franc $70.45 costs.

BIG YEAR FOR 'HOPPERS

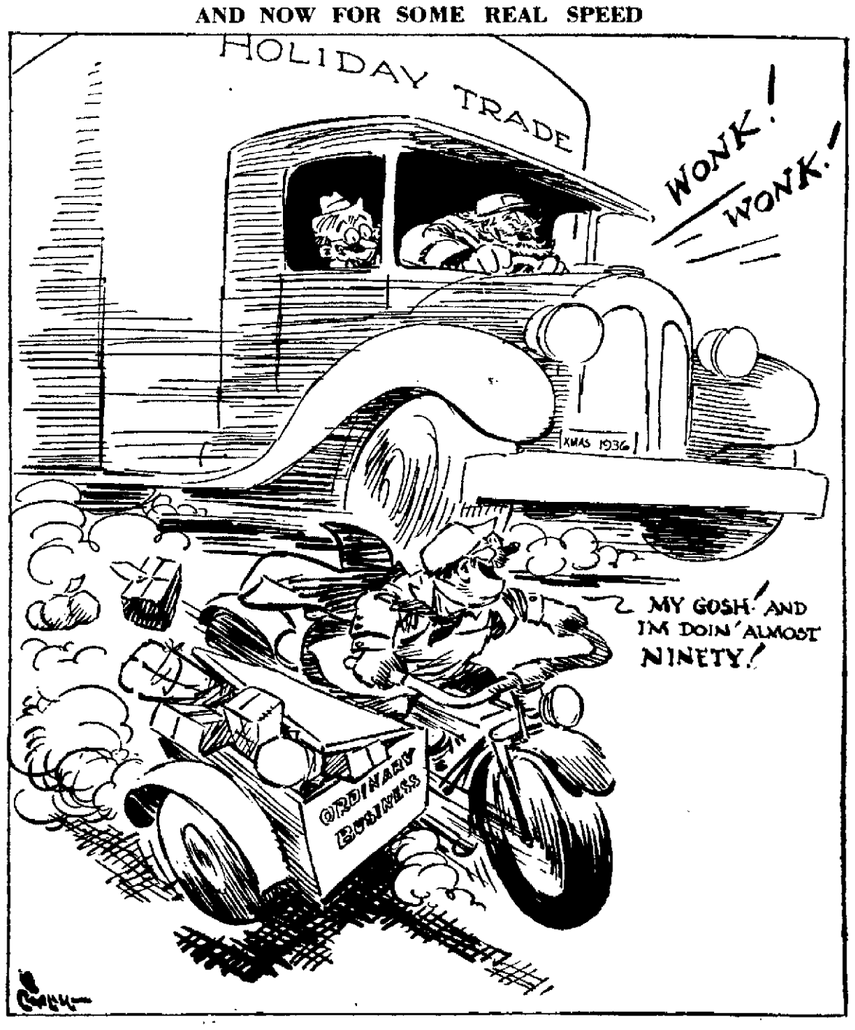

Iowa Entomologist Warns of Major Invasion.

AMES, Ia. (AP). State Entomologist C. J. Drake said "Conditions in the midwest threaten one of the worst and most widespread grasshopper invasions in the history of the country." Preparing to leave for the national grasshopper conference at Omaha Friday and Saturday, Dr. Drake added:

"We discovered last year that severe cold does not destroy grasshoppers. All major species which are economically destructive live thru the winter in the egg stage. Chinch bugs, however, are killed by severe winters such as last year."

Representatives of 28 western and midwestern states, the Canadian department of agriculture and the United States department of agriculture will attend the Omaha conference. It plans to consider asking the USDA for a permanent revolving fund for the control of such insect pests as grasshoppers and chinch bugs.

FTC SAYS RATES HIGHER

Claims Auto Firms', Financiers' Interest Excessive.

WASHINGTON. (AP). The federal trade commission charged 21 automobile manufacturers and financing companies with obtaining a higher rate of interest on deferred car payments than they have advertised they charge. The commission issued eight complaints charging violation of the unfair competition section of the trade commission act.

The commission said the complaints alleged the companies advertised they sold their cars on an annual 6 percent time payment plan. Actually, the commission charged, the interest payments total about 12 percent. The commission said the following automobile companies had been named in the complaints:

"The Nash Motors' company, Kenosha, Wis.; General Motors corporation, Detroit, and its subsidiaries, which produce Chevrolet, Oldis, Pontiac, Buick and Cadillac cars; Chrysler corporation, Detroit, and its subsidiaries, Chrysler Sales corporation, and those manufacturing De Soto, Dodge and Plymouth cars, Graham-Paige Motors corporation, Detroit, Hudson Motor Car company, Detroit; Ford Motor company, Dearborn, Mich.; Reo Motor Car company, Lansing, Mich., and Packard Motor Car company, Detroit."

Financing companies named, the commission said were:

"General Motors Acceptance corporation, New York City, joined with the General Motors group; Commercial Credit company; Baltimore, joined with Chrysler corporation and its subsidiaries; Universal Credit corporation, Detroit, with Ford Motor company, and Commercial Investment Trust corporation, New York City, with Graham-Paige Motors corporation and Hudson Motor Car company."

INSURGENT PLANES AGAIN BOMB MADRID

Miaja Defense Dictator—Franco Warns Fliers to Bombard Ships.

By the Associated Press.

Insurgent airplanes bombed Madrid twice again in rapid succession as fascists pressed their drive to capture the capital thru an encircling movement.

Artillery and machine gun fire, punctuated by the boom of trench mortars and hand grenades, were heard from rapidly spreading fronts around the city.

Gen. Jose Miaja became practical defense dictator of the capital. The president of the defense junta appeared slated to assume charge of the whole Madrid commissariat.

The fascist planes did comparatively little damage in their sky raids. Damage Wednesday was widespread from four raids which initiated the new series of bombings.

Socialist militiamen encircled Villareal in the northern Bay of Biscay sector and pressed to almost within striking distance of the insurgent provincial capital of Vitoria.

Insurgent Commander Franco informed Great Britain that his planes "plan frequent attacks both day and night on presumed enemy ships" from north of Alicante to west of Malaga in the Mediterranean.

A British parliamentary mission to Madrid cabled the house of commons that there was a possible urgent need of gas masks in the Spanish capital.

They reported witnesses had told them of ten cases who "present all the symptoms of asphyxiation."

NO LETUP ON THE TAXES

May Ask Congress Continue Nuisance Levies.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Congress may be asked to continue most of a group of "nuisance" taxes scheduled to expire by next July. The taxes, which provided more than $300,000,000 of revenue in the last fiscal year and returned about $150,000,000 during the first five months of this year, include levies on gasoline, radio sets, mechanical refrigerators, firearms and automobiles and parts. Altho saying no definite decision has been reached as to whether the taexs would be continued, fiscal officials nevertheless added that revenue they produce will be needed if next year's budget is to show an approximate balance. Biggest revenue producer of the special levies is the gasoline tax, which returned $177,000,000 during the last fiscal year. Next highest receipts were realized from the taxes on automobiles and parts, which totaled $55,000,000.

PARLIAMENT IS TOLD NOT TO BE CURIOUS

No Constitutional Issue Now, Premier Baldwin Says of Romance.

LONDON. (AP). King Edward of England won in a first show of strength in his all-critical fight with Britain's government to keep his throne and his American divorcee friend, Wallis Warfield Simpson. England's sovereign insisted stubbornly on his right to a private life.

Premier Baldwin stood before the house of commons in emotional anticlimax to insist he had nothing to say to the British people.

Then, dramatically, the laborite colonel, Rt. Hon. Josiah Clement Wedgwood, told the British press association in apparent confirmation of the authoritative impression that the king was winning at least the first phase of his empire-stunning battle. "The king is beloved. The thing we have got to avoid more than anything else is abdiction. Any change will tear this country in two. If a general election comes, the outcome will be on the side of the king."

The Liberal afternoon Star, said: "Why should he (the king) be denied the common happiness of mankind?"

With his heir-presumptive brother and Mrs. Simpson at his side, the king refused to yield to Baldwin on throne or friendship. But, some sources said, he may have thrust aside the first minister's attack with a pledge he would make no arrangement not satisfactory to the government, the church and himself.

Attlee Asks Question.

Clement R. Attlee, opposition leader who reputedly has sided with Baldwin, asked as the tense members' of parliament and the amazed citizenry of the empire waited:

"I would like to ask the prime minister on private motion a question—whether any constitutional difficulties have arisen and whether he has any statement to make?"

Baldwin replied: "I have no statement to make today. While

INVESTIGATE TRAIN PILE UP

Defect in Tenth Car Seen as Possible Cause.

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP). Burlington railroad officials here expressed the belief Thursday a defect in the tenth car of a fast freight train may have caused 28 cars to pile up near the Mullen depot Wednesday night. They added, however, the "pile up is too much of a mess to ascertain the cause definitely yet." The 28 cars, beginning with the 10th, were in the middle of the train. The others in front and the 14 behind remained on the track.

L. J. Devine, Alliance brakeman, who was thrown from the caboose platform, was brought here for medical attention. His left elbow was dislocated and he was bruised badly.

TOO LATE FOR REWARD.

WICHITA, Kas. (AP). A. J. Redman, manager of the C. E. iKng Beverage company here, said Albelt Mintzmyer of Orleans, Neb., shot his crow too late to win a case of beer. The beverage firm banded 500 crows and released them more than a year ago as an adevrtising stunt. The limit on the offer was April 1. About 250 of the bands were redemmed, some as far away as Saskatchewan, Can.

ORLEANS. (AP). Albert Mintzmyer claims a case of beer, if he can find out where to claim it. Recently he shot a crow near here. The bird had an aluminum band around its leg, inscribed: "One Case Beer, C. E. King, No. 234."

TIRE SHOP ROBBED.

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP). Nineteen automobile tires, two car heaters, four quarts of an anti-freeze solution and $10 in cash were stolen from O. C. Teare's establishment at Hartington, according to information received here from Sheriff W. F. Bisenius.

FAVOR LARGE SCALE PUMP IRRIGATION

Nebraska Solons Inspect Farms, Plan Drive for Federal Funds.

OMAHA. (UP). Pump irrigation as practiced in Nebraska will be made the basis of an appeal to congress for an appropriation of $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 for a nationwide installation of the system.

This plan was announced following the return of four members of the Nebraska congressional delegation from a conference with Kearney chamber of commerce. It was suggested by Hugh A. Brown, president of the eKarney chamber and publisher of the Kearney Hub.

In the inspection party were Senator Burke and Congressman Coffey, Binderup and McLaughlin. They inspected a dozen farms in the Kearney section which use pump irrigation.

Senator Burke said that upon his return to Washington he would propose that $1,000,000 be set aside by the government for test work on Nebraska farms. He will suggest that the wells be financed by the farm credit administration and that the construction work be done by PWA, WPA or some other governmental agency. Burke was enthusiastic over feasibility of pump irrigation and said he would urge that wells be sunk on at least 1,000 Nebraska farms.

On the John Teed farm near Gibbon the party was told that the cost of operating Teed's plant during last summer's drouth period was $3 per acre. It would cost an average o fabout $1 000 to sink a well which would irrigate 60 to 80 acres, it was estimated.

"Teed's corn averaged 67 bushels to the acre, which he sold at around $1 per bushel," Burke said. "aFrmers on all sides of him

CONVICTED OF ARSON.

OMAHA. (UP). The second conviction for arson in recent weeks was returned by a jury in District Judge Yeager's court, which found Alfio Robino guilty of setting fire to his home in order to collect insurance. Originally insured for $4,500, Robino was alleged to have added three policies totaling $6,000. Previous to the two recent verdicts no conviction for arson had been obtained in Douglas county for 12 years.

GRAND CHAMP STEER BRINGS $3 A POUND

Sold at Auction to Walgreen Firm—Kenworthy Gets Hybrid Corn Title.

INTERNATIONAL AMPHITHEATER, CHICAGO. (UP). G. Page, grand championship steer of the international livestock show, was sold on the auction block for $3 a pound. Charles R. Walgreen company was the buyer

The steer weighed 1,020 pounds when he entered the auction ring and brought his exhibitor, Oklahoma A. & M. college, $3,060, a little less than was realized by Cleo Yoder, Wellman, Ia., on the sale of his grand champion last year. He weighed 995 pounds when he entered the show last week.

Few were bidders, however, and officials said they were disappointed in the price.

Yoder's steer last year sold for $3 a pound but weighed more than the Oklahoma entry.

The reserve grand champion steer, shown by Wyoming Hereford ranch, Cheyenne, was purchased for the Club Alabama, Chicago, and brought 70 cents a pound.

Sale of approximately 2,000 head of cattle, 1,900 sheep, lambs and 1,250 hogs followed sale of the grand champion.

Junior livestock winners will be sold Friday, led off by the grand champion owned by Robert E. Vaughn, Chenoa, Ill.

Buyers expected particular quality in the junior sales because many entries were weeded out earlier as undesirable for the contest.

Ribboned and combed draft horses had their day in the show ring. More than 500 thundered past the judge's stand to be judged for gait, bone, build and stance. Judging also was continued in the sheep and a few of the cattle classes.

The grand champion hybrid corn title at the international live stock and grain and hay show was held by C. A. Kenworthy, Greenfield, O., on his shelled sample of Indiana No. 614.

Reserve champion went to John M. Grathwohl of Fairmont, Minn., on his sample of Minnesota hybrid No. 301. Kenworthy, who was not at the show to receive his award, used a seed developed at his alma mater, Purdue university.

Ninety-two samples from ten states were entered.

CHICAGO. (AP). A team of three Oklahoma farm boys carried off poultry judging honors. Members are Kay Wilson, Oktaha; Lucien Daugherty, Chilocco; and Ralph Burris of Miami. South Dakota's team was second, and Illinois third.

A Red Polled bull owned by H. P. Olson of Altona, Ill., won the senior and grand championships of its breed. The bull was perfect model, a 6 year old.

The junior championship in the Red Polled breed was won by F. A. Sloan's prime sensation, a senior bull calf. Sloan's barn is at Burchard, Neb had a total failure. Teed set a new record for his farm in raising the largest crop of potatoes he has ever produced. And all this in one of the driest summers ever experienced in Nebraska."

The farm of Fred Wallace and others who also used pump irrigation likewise returned large dividends, the investigators discovered. In most cases the plants paid for themselves in one eyar. Most of the pump irrigators used electric power to draw the water By use of gasoline or other fuels, it was believed the cost could be cut somewhat.

The problem of finance, Burke said, is a serious one, because so many farmers now are mortgaged "up to the hilt." He believed, however that by inserting a claus making loans to irrigators prior liens, the FCA would be willing to advance the money

FOUR SIDED CASE.

Briefs were filed in the supreme court Thursday in a four-sided case from Douglas county in which Nellie E Saffer had been denied a request to quiet title in her to certain Omaha rental property in which her husband and two brothers had an interest subject to the life estate of their mother Emma Mrs Nellie Saffer said her husband, John, had borrowed her savings before they were married to buy a tax certificate against the property, taking assignment first in his name and later assigning it to her She said the purchase had been made by her to make up for squandering of her earnings in the interest of the other members of the family, in which her husband had participated, and she supposed when the others made no defense to the foreclosure of the certificate they intended thereby to partly repay her. Mrs. Emma Saffer said it was John's duty to pay the taxes because he got all the rents, and the other two heirs, sons, claimed other members of the family, including their mother, had conspired to deprive them of all interest in the property. The lower court canceled the tax certificate.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

POESCHEL APPEALS.

Appeal was filed in supreme court Thursday by Bernard Poeschel from the action of the district court of Stanton county barring Sheriff Whalen from levying upon the property of Pauline Tiedtke to satisfy a judgment for $3,000 against her husband, Arthur. The latter had begun a replevin action in Wayne county against Poeschel to replevin certain personal property upon which he claimed to hold a chattel mortgage but after he got hold of the property and sold it the court threw the case out of court because no petition had been filed. He ordered return of the property and as this could not be done gave judgment against Tiedtke for $5,000, later reduced to $3,000. The district judge held that having quashed the summons in the replevin action the court lost jurisdiction and had no authority to enter the judgment. Poeschel had claimed that Tiedtke had transferred his property to his wife.

DISTRICT LIQUOR MEET.

Chairman Gass and Commissioner McEachen of the Nebraska liquor control commission have returned from Des Moines where they attended a meeting of commissioners from a district comprised of eight states. They announced that the next meeting of the commissioners from Missouri, Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota would be held in Lincoln probably in May next spring or a little later in the summer. Two or more of the states have one man to administer liquor laws, the others having three or more. "The more I attend these meetings," said Chairman Gass, "the better satisfied I am with our own Nebraska commission." "We get more out of a meeting of commissioners of a few states than from a meeting of all the states," said McEachen. Commissioner Carmichael of the Nebraska commission attended a similar meeting some months ago.

WRIST WATCH MISSING.

Sam Kirshenbaum, 1505 S, told police his white gold wrist watch, valued at $25, had been stolen from the rifle range in the basement of Andrews hall.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies so seldom give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts lifeless?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. J. S. Leonha dt known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, and restores the affected parts

HEM ROID is so successful in even the most stubborn cases that Harley Drug Co and all good druggists advise every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today—take them as directed—then if not completely satisfied with results — your money back.—Advertisement.

ASSOCIATED PRESS MEMBERS IN MEETING

Representatives of Seven Publications Gather With A. P. Men.

A discussion on news coverage, with particular emphasis on state news, occupied the attention Thursday of representatives of members of the Associated Press in Nebraska at their annual meeting at the Lincoln.

Robert Lasch, state editor of the Omaha World-Herald, spoke on state news, and Frank Williams, managing editor of the Lincoln Journal, discussed the handling of election returns. Plans were made for coverage of the unicameral legislature, which convenes in January.

Other representatives of member newspapers attending the meeting were:

Fred S. Hunter of the Omaha Bee-News, J. C. Seacrest, Joe Seacrest, Fred Seacrest, H. G. McVicker, Al McIntosh, and Howard Dobson, all of The Lincoln Journal, J. E. Lawrence of The Lincoln Star, A. F. Buechler of the Grand Island Independent, Earl Marvin of the Beatrice Sun, H J. Wisner of the Scottsbluff Star-Herald.

Representing the Associated Press were: E. E. Makiesky, Nebraska bureau chief in Lincoln; Edward Stanley of New York City executive assistant to the general manager and formerly of Lincoln and Aurora; J. N. Allison of Kansas City, field representative; R. W. Blake, Omaha bureau, Dwight E. McCormack, filing editor, and Ed Yinger, night editor, of the Nebraska bureau.

S. H. McCaw of the Norfolk News is president, and Frank D. Throop of The Lincoln Star is vice president. Officers will be elected late in the afternoon.

CONDEMNATION UNDER WAY

City Moves to Procure Right of Way on 48th.

Agreements dealing with grading of 48th street, O to Holdrege, and a Missouri Pacific subway under the tracks at 48th and X, have been signed by the parties concerned with one copy of each returned to the city. This is to be a federal development tho the railroad must maintain its subway while the city will be required to maintain the street proper.

Some time ago the council authorized the attorney to start condemnation proceedings to procure right-of-way. Publication was completed Wednesday There are 13 separate ownerships involved and these owners have 30 days in which to appear and file protest if they care to do so. If they do not appear then the city will ask the county court to name six appraisers to assess damages and to fix date for appraisers to meet

The current city budget carries $22,000 for right-of-way purchases, including belt line developments such as the 10th street cutoff and the Havelock cutoff.

FIRST SOIL SAVING CHECK

He and 39 other Platte county farmers got checks from Alfred Berchtold, treasurer of the county soil conservation association. Heibel's check was for $23 17 The other payments ranged up to $400

The Platte county treasury was an indirect beneficiary Heibel said he would use his money to pay taxes. The next man in line, Rudiph Wilke, who received $210 for taking 22 acres out of corn and planting them to sweet clover, said he would invest his check in feed for his stock.

ELDER GEBHART ON STAND

Father of Man Charged With Bank Robbery Testifies

Martin Gebhart, Alliance railroad employe, Thursday morning took the stand in the second trial of his son, Marvin Gebhart, charged with looting the First National Bank of Aurora. The mother and two brothers had previously testified.

Mrs. Dorothy Clarke, Alliance widow of Doc Clarke whose name has been mentioned frequently by defense witnesses who fixed date of completion of the Gebhart garage as Aug 25, 1934, the day of the bank robbery, because, they said, Mr. Clarke died on the following day, testified. A beam, allegedly furnished by Clarke, had been taken from his premises, according to testimony, on the 25th. Witnesses further had testified that the accused helped put the timber in place that day and otherwise helped in construction.

Mrs. Clarke testified that her husband died Aug 26, 1934, and that Jonas Sanders, a carpenter, and one of the Gebhart boys came to their place the previous day for the stringer. Under cross-examination by U S Atty. Nye she admitted that she did not see Marvin Gebhart

Martin Gebhart testified that Marvin ate dinner at home on the day in question and that he also was on the premises when the father returned home from work late in the afternoon. He said that he and Doc Clarke worked at the same place and that he attended the funeral.

H. D. Cass and Wilham Stroud testified at length as to quantities of sand and cement, foundation and floor dimensions of the garage The case may be concluded late Friday.

ON MEDICO-DENTAL CLINIC

Zone Board Hears Dr. Emerson and His Neighbors.

Dr. Clarence Emerson Thursday appeared before the zone board of appeals concerning his application for such classification of the southeast corner of 24th and Sumner as will permit operation of a medico-dental clinic. Interesting angles of municipal growth were presented. Applicant explained that in the early day the doctor's office equipment consisted largely of a swivel chair and desk while development and progress have brought need of appliances, X-ray and other items.

Growth of the city, he said, demands that offices be not centralized in the down-town business section. In many of the larger cities, he said, this type of office is reaching out for a better community service. The location, he added, is within a block of his residence and added that he would not want any development, other than a community improvement, in that neighborhood.

J. A. Porter, druggist at 25th and Sumner, told the board that many of his patrons had discussed this request and all appear to look upon it with favor. Homer Martin, whose home is but 65 feet from a corner of the proposed site, said that he is enthusiastic over such an improvement He feels, he added, that it is but another step in the city's progress.

No one appeared in opposition. The board deferred action and turned the matter over, for careful study, to the special committee named at the last meeting to study the apartment house situation This group consists of Clark Jeary, board chairman, Engineer Erickson and City Attorney Laughlin. The apartment problem has to do with large houses, built years ago, no longer suitable for one or two-family occupancy One question being whether or not it may be advisable, in certain sections, to something like semi-apartment districts, probably preserving residential setbacks and height restrictions

The zone board recommended grant of permission to R. L Williams to attack a garage to his house at 7041 Havelock avenue. Application came to the board as an appeal from refusal of the building inspector to issue permit. A setback is involved.

SET WPA QUOTA 19,000.

WPA has set a December quota for Nebraska of 19,000 to be employed solely on the basis of need. Under an agreement worked out, RA will take care of bonafide farm cases. This increase in quota for Nebraska was brought about due to the extremely critical condition of unemployed farm families in the state. The seriousness of the Nebraska situation was explained to Washington officials by Administrator Felton and Senator Norris, both of whom made personal surveys.

URGING CHURCH PAYMENTS

Missionary Society Trying to Stimulate Delinquents.

The executive committee of the Nebraska Christian Missionary society met at the Lincoln Thursday to consider means of aiding several churches about the state to make interest payments on funds loaned them by the society Five churches have gotten comparatively far behind on their payments, officials said and attempts are being made thru concessions and other means to encourage the delinquents to more active effort in raising the money

In the afternoon, the committee on unified promotion, whose function is to advocate the development of the unified promotion idea for the carrying on of missionary work in the state, met for a discussion.

The new bonds included $102,077 of original issues by cities and villages, $91,000 refunding securities by cities and villages, $15,000 of new bonds by school districts, and $13,500 of refunding bonds by school districts.

Best Cough Remedy You Ever Used Is Home-made

Double-quick Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs that start from colds than this simple home mixture gives. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

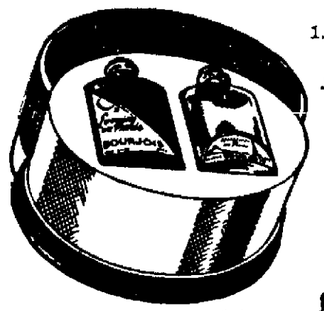

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It has a remarkable three-fold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

QUEEN MARY CRUSHED BY TURN OF EVENTS

Broken Hearted by Son's Loss of Prestige by His Marriage Plans

LONDON (Copyright by UP) Queen Mary was understood to be almost broken hearted over the crisis that has arisen from King Edward's refusal to give up his idea of marrying Mrs Wallis Simpson

The gray haired queen nearing 70, widowed only last January saw all that she had worked for since her marriage 43 years ago slipping from her tired hands her beloved son insisting on a marriage which she believed impossible perhaps even leaving his throne

She was at Marlborough house into which she moved as a bride and back to which she moved a few weeks ago so that the king could have Buckingham palace nearby

It was known that on more than one occasion the queen had said that the king's friendship and its complications were a terrible blow to her after the serene reign of her husband for 25 years a reign which immeasurably increased the prestige of the crown and served as an example to Britons everywhere

It is understood that the queen in various ways has made known to Edward directly and indirectly her disapproval She has alternately pleaded and complained bitterly

For two weeks now she has been unable to say anything The king has refused positively to discuss his friendship with anyone and least of all with his mother the strict unbending queen who guarded him in boyhood and youth and tried to make him a man she would be proud of

Friends say that the queen looks worn and tired with deep circles under eyes her face strained

Now her attitude is that of a woman broken hearted and resigned to see all her dreams dissipated

Court circles do not believe reports that the king tried to bring her and Mrs Simpson together They say that he has too much respect and affection for Queen Mary to do anything like that because he knows she opposes his friendship

HUNT NOISE BROADCASTERS

Machines in Home Are Hard on the Nerves

NEW YORK (P) The discovery of noise broadcasting stations in household and other machines accounting for much of the racket which physicians say is bad for nerves was reported to the American society of mechanical engineers One of these "stations" was the blades of an electric fan When tested this fan was entirely noiseless said Ernest J Abbott of the Physics Research company, Ann Arbor Mich The motor also was noiseless Yet when the two got together they made a racket The noise cost a lot of money because it was in a refrigerator the manufacturer of which was buying special motors for quietness

Investigation of the fan blades solved the mystery The blades had some vibrations which were the same as those of the motor Altho the motor vibrations were inaudible the fan blades picked them up and "broadcast" them Changing the shape of the fan stopped the noise

"Dedicated to the people of Nebraska and to the development of the resources of the state."—Sept. 7, 1867

"There is no place like Nebraska"

The Japanese, it is reported, see danger of rule by a dictator. It is hard to understand just what danger a dictatorship might hold for the Japs. They are under a virtual dictator now. All the ruling is done from the top.

The discussion of war debt payments has already been dropped by the French chamber of deputies. There is a feeling that debate might hinder negotiations, especially since the deputies have no idea how the United States feels. The chamber has wisely decided to wait until more definite information is obtainable.

It seems that some states will have a double part in the new social security plan, paying their money and receiving the benefits. Others will have a lesser part, being permitted only to pay their assessments. Some are hoping that congress, when it convenes, will find some reason for amending the law in such a way as to treat the states equally well.

If King Edward should give up his throne, England will not be without a competent king. In many ways the duke of York is more fitted to reign than is King Edward, altho high hopes are held for the latter. The duke is a sober, conscientious family man. He is the type of man the British people understand and in whom they have faith. His wife is a Scot of noble lineage who enjoys the affection of many British subjects. King Edward himself has often said that his brother should have been king. The duke of York, should he achieve the throne, will make England a good king.

Another day's reports of the Spanish civil war indicate that the fascist allies of the Spanish rebels are not going to permit them to fail in the capture of Madrid as easily and quickly as seemed possible early in the week. The air force, which is made up of foreign planes manned by foreign pilots, raided Madrid and dropped an enormous quantity of explosive and not a few gas bombs. The destruction in the city was terrific and the morale of the loyal forces badly shaken. More than 50 persons were killed and many persons were injured. The rebels may be in the mood to give up but their fascist backers, the parties for whom they are mere pawns in a bloody game, are not ready to quit.

The books of the federal agents show but three kidnaping cases which are yet "open." The record of the federal bureau of investigation in this respect is enviable. A number of kidnapings have been solved. This list of three does not include the Robles case in Arizona for the bureau, after much delay and study, decided that the crossing of state lines was not involved and that they are not concerned. While this remains an open case, it is not a federal bureau of investigation case. The records are confined to cases in which the G-men are directly concerned. While the percentage of unsolved cases is still large, the real advantage lies in the decline of kidnaping as a national pastime. No cases have been reported in 1936 in which the bureau has a hand.

At the Iowa prison is a convict who has been reported as missing for a month altho he never left the prison. He disappeared with the crowd which attended a prison football game and, since that time, has been living in a narrow space under one of the prison buildings. Night after night he attempted to scale the walls but failed. He was finally discovered and has been returned to his cell, an escaped convict who never had a moment of real freedom altho he was missing for more than a month. The joke is entirely on the prisoner. He enjoyed no freedom. He was less at ease than if he had been in his cell. His tiny burrow under the building was uncomfortable, his food supply small and diminishing rapidly, and it was cold at night and not too warm during the day. This man put himself thru a month of torture with no benefit whatsoever, and possible punishment in the offing.

VISIT ENDS.

The president has made his speeches, attended the receptions, doffed his hat to cheering throngs and is again at sea, leaving Argentina to the peace conference with Secretary Hull in command of the American delegation. Homeward bound on the cruiser Indianapolis, with a stop scheduled in Montevideo before the long leg of the trip really begins, President Roosevelt is reported to be "encouraged in his hope for a united American peace front."

There is no reason for anything but hope. Not a single dark cloud was appearing on the horizon of the western hemisphere when the president left for South America. There are no dark clouds now. And a plea for good neighborliness, for friendship and understanding, is not likely to cause any damage.

The fact is, a peace mission to South America savors of "carrying coals to Newcastle." It was almost certain of success from the beginning for peace reigns thruout the western world. Even the slight differences which caused the Chaco struggle have been settled, temporarily at least, and even if the settlement is not permanent, no speech by the president of the United States is going to do much with the fighting countries involved.

Thus it is that the president starts back from a peace mission to South America well pleased at having brought new hope of peace to an area that is already calm and peaceful, with no thought of trouble with anyone.

A peace plan which would organize all the American countries into a mutual benefit association might have advantages. At the same time it would have drawbacks. As long as the loud voices of such irreconcilables as Borah and Johnson are heard in the senate, it will be difficult to pledge the aid of the United States to some distant South American country should it become involved in international difficulties. Moreover the price of such agreement is a sacrifice of the Monroe doctrine and the United States is hesitant about abandoning traditions.

It may be agreed that the doctrine is a source of irritation in Latin America and a burden on the United States under any circumstances, and yet the people of the United States will be slow to discard it. They are slow to discard anything.

What the United States needs is commercial treaties with South American countries, commercial ties rather than exchanges of peace pledges. If we can sell our produce there and absorb their products, and the products of the tropics are noncompetitive to some extent, and if we can build happy and mutually profitable business relations, peace pledges will be unnecessary.

BEER TROUBLES.

It seems that where beer is sold there is trouble. Control of the beer market is a prize that many manufacturers and distributors covet. Because of open complaints of one beer distributor against another in Des Moines, and because of other complaints and a general knowledge of the law enforcement situation in Des Moines as it relates to liquors and gambling, the Polk county grand jury is now holding a session. Co. Atty. Burkman is making an effort to get evidence before that jury that will show up the situation, that will uncover rackets, gambling and local enforcement of the liquor law.

Gov. Herring has made a statement relating to alcohol running in Iowa, centering in Des Moines; sale by the federal government of dealers' tax stamps in Iowa; the gambling situation in Des Moines and the action of the Des Moines city council in granting new beer sale permits to locations where permits have been revoked.

Herring expresses the hope that Co. Atty. Burkman "has the courage to go forward with the investigation. A cleanup is needed." He offers the help of the machinery of the state to assist Burkman. Burkman replies that all he wants from the state, so far, is such information concerning law violation as state agents may possess. There is just a suggestion, to those who read between the lines, of buck passing there, but a closer knowledge of the situation might remove that.

One beer distributor complains that he cannot sell his product to retailers, even at a saving to them of 10 cents a case. He can't guarantee police "protection." His rival gets more for his beer and sells it. The implication is plain, altho it may be difficult to prove what this distributor says. Sunday and late night sales are also involved in charges.

If the county attorney, backed by the governor, cannot, after a fair effort, stop beer racketeering and minimize open gambling in Iowa's chief city, that state is in a bad way. When law enforcement breaks down, protection for the law abiding is lost.

DUST STORM ORIGIN.

Minnesota rebels. It doesn't like charges cast at it following recent dust storms that spread a new film of powdered soil over midwestern states. The soil didn't all come from Minnesota. A like protest comes from the Dakotas. The soil spread out thinly over half a dozen states was not all raised by the wind in the Dakotas. Like denials may come from Wyoming and Colorado and Oklahoma. Maybe, after all, the dust was raised in the air largely in the states in which it fell.

Some things about recent dust storms can be stated with definiteness. The dust dropped from the sky. Much of it was so high that it was carried over this state, altho enough fell to make it unpleasant for all. The ground wind here came from the north and northwest during the storm, but so far we have had no records of wind directions in the stratosphere regions.

For all we know some of the dust may have come from the red soil country of Texas or Oklahoma or New Mexico. Much of the dust that dropped here had a reddish cast. Maybe a ground wind in the southwest lifted the dirt high in the air and a contrary wind in the upper regions reversed directions and floated it north over the midwestern valley states.

Then again it is said that drouth in the Saskatchewan country, far to the north, has left the top soil dry and pulverized, and that winds cause it to drift far. Maybe that Canadian province has been losing topsoil to the United States. No embargo devised so far by man can stop that. Nature has a way of doing things that seems to balk men's efforts.

A great deal of fruitless discussion has followed in the wake of dust storms. It is useless, because if we knew where the dust came from nothing could be done about it. The people of the region losing the soil probably will feel just as bad about it eventually as the people do where it drops to earth. What we do know certainly is that some places on this continent are losing a lot of top soil.

FOOTNOTES.

"Woodrow Wilson insisted upon 'open covenants openly arrived at,'" writes Bishop G. Bromley Oxham, of the Methodist church at Omaha. "The League of Nations has sought to publish all treaties signed by member nations. With the decline of league influence, nations are turning again to the secret treaty. Germany and Japan have signed an agreement which is announced as an anti-communist pact. Official announcement was made November 27th. The treaty had been executed by Joachim Von Ribbentrop who is Hitler's personal adviser in foreign affairs. Japan was represented by Ambassador Mushakoje.

"The agreement insists that the activities of the third international 'threatens world peace at large.' Japan and Germany, therefore, bind themselves together in an agreement to: Inform and consult with each other and execute cooperative action to combat communist international activity; invite third parties, "whose domestic peace is endangered by the disruptive activities of the communist international," to join them; exchange constant police information on the subject; take strict measures at home or abroad against persons who directly or indirectly serve the communist international; and co-operate in an international campaign against communism thru a permanent German-Japanese commission. It is generally believed that Italy will co-operate in this undertaking. The real truth, no doubt, is that Japan and Germany have entered into a military and naval alliance.

"The dictators are having a difficult time solving the economic problem within the national boundaries of the respective dictatorships. Expansion appears to be not only a doctrine of fascism but inevitable. Expansion means war. Germany would not like to attack Russia alone. She, therefore, seeks an agreement with Japan. Russia has long anticipated this alliance. This is the reason for laying the important military railroad to Komsomolsk. This city is the eastern terminal on the Amur river, several hundred miles north of Vladivostok. It is at this place that Russia plans to build a port. This railroad parallels the Trans-Siberian railway but is so far north of the latter that it seems to be protected from Japanese attack. Russia has proceeded to develop her air force and claims to possess a force of 7,000 planes with 50,000 trained pilots. Thus the madness of 1914 appears to be cast for reproduction in the 1930's.

"Upon the very day that Germany and Japan entered into this agreement, Sir Basil Zaharoff, most famous of the "Merchants of Death," died. No doubt other vultures who profit by war are looking down upon the European scene with satisfaction.

"The bright spot in the world picture is the journey of President Roosevelt to Buenos Aires for the high purpose of concluding an agreement to maintain peace in the Americas and to remove the western hemisphere from participation in European conflict. That trade advantages may result from the president's visit is evident. The primary fact, however, will be that of creating a public opinion in America that will not tolerate the use of Americans for the purpose of extending the territory of Japan and Germany under the guise of an anti-communist campaign."

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL.

One of the live issues before the unicameral session will be the matter of distribution of old age assistance moneys. The last legislature rejected the idea of dividing the money available equally between all who qualified. Instead it voted to make distribution on the population basis. This has resulted in pensioners in some counties getting in excess of $26 a month and in other counties getting less than $8. The state average is less than $16, but in Douglas the payments are $17.27 and in Lancaster $13.65. Pensioners say the smaller amounts are entirely too little, and several representatives have indicated an intention to introduce bills for an equalization. This amount represents the combined state and federal payments. The federal government offers to pay $15 a month, but the state has not enough money to pay that sum, and all it can pay is matched exactly by the federal grant, and no more.

Pre-election promises that there would be no reduction in the relief rolls are coming home to roost with a vengeance. Following the election came notice that the rolls would be cut 50 percent and now letters and petitions of protest are pouring in on officials in charge. Many of the signers say they voted 100 percent for Roosevelt and the democratic ticket, and they make it apparent that they voted that way because of the promise made before election day.

President Roosevelt carried all but 13 of the 93 Nebraska counties, the vote tabulation shows, and Gov. Landon got all of the remaining 13, not one county electing to "limp along with Lemke." Things were not quite so one-sided in the senatorial race. Senator Norris, the winner, obtained 53, Robert G. Simmons, republican, 34, and Terry Carpenter, democrat, 6. Most of the Simmons counties were those of small population in the western part of the state, some of them casting a total vote of less than 1,000. The cattle men were fairly solidly behind Simmons, which accounts for his western support. However, all of Carpenter's counties were in the west, namely Scottsbluff, Kimball, Banner, Box Butte, Morrill and Sioux. Among the larger counties that went for Simmons were Otoe, Fillmore, Hall, Hamilton, Madison and York. The number of counties where the margin between Norris and Simmons was less than 200 or 300 was surprisingly large, and in Lancaster county Norris' edge was just under 400. But in Douglas, Norris came away with something over 15,000, which accounts for nearly half of his plurality of 35,000 votes.

The postoffice department reports better business in Lincoln this year than it enjoyed last year. The showing is 60 thousand dollars above the 11 months record of last year, with the prospect of a big December business. The indications are for a near approach to the record of 1930.

The Lincoln postoffice now carries postal savings accounts that total more than two and a half million dollars, the number of such accounts being 4,653. During November the Lincoln office sold 57 thousand dollars worth of government savings bonds.

Work may not begin on the North 48th street connecting link before next spring. Everything is ready to go with the exception of right of way. That is holding back the start. On one or more properties condemnation proceedings must be gone thru with before work starts. Government and state, as well as city funds, are involved. Government money cannot be secured for such projects unless right of way is provided. That makes necessary the clearing up of this question first.

Authorities who have had much to do with right of way matters say it is not always a simple matter to determine the right party to deal with where property title is to be secured. Therefore in such cases condemnation is preferable to private dealing. Confirmation of ownership is secured thru condemnation. That seems to be the safer way in some instances even tho work is delayed. The new street will be carried under the Missouri Pacific, Rock Island and double tracked main line of the Burlington by two underpasses.

MEN AND THINGS.

It is explained that the real reason why King Edward is infatuated with Wally is that when she entertains him she goes back into the kitchen and cooks him a real American meal. Proving once again that a cook may look at a king. The president is being criticised for going on a peace mission to the countries of Latin America in a battleship. It merely proves that he is not a pacifist. He just wanted to show that if they didn't want peace he had the goods for war.

The end of the football season brings a lot of relief to those of us who take our admiration for the home team so seriously that along about Thursday noon we begin getting an uneasy feeling in the pit of our stomach which we continue to cherish until the last whistle blows Saturday. Just what difference it makes to us whether the boys win or lose is not apparent since we have nothing wagered on the result and our own salary goes on after the game as well as before. But we suppose that is the penalty for being a football fan.

By abolishing the courts of Italy Mussolini at one fell swoop disbars all the lawyers. He may have witnessed our own feeble attempts to clean up the profession, and may therefore consider it an impossible job for the piecemeal method. Under a dictatorship courts are a useless appendage of government. The main functions of a court are to dispense justice, protect human rights and insure liberty. As none of these can exist under one man rule, why a court?

A member of the French cabinet killed himself the other day, and it develops that he did it to get even with his enemies who had hounded both himself and his wife by slanderous and scandalous stories of personal conduct. We suspect that nobody but a Frenchman with his intense urge to dramatize himself would have taken that method of revenge. As near as can be figured out his theory was that his suicide would so shame them that they would endure agonies of remorse. The flaw in the reasoning is that if these enemies actually believed what they said about him they would be inclined to feel satisfied that he did what honor dictated.

The leading cartoonist of England was over here recently, and like all visiting Englishmen he was decidedly snippy in his remarks about our own breed of cartoonists. None of them, we gather, were doing particularly commendable work, and none of them possess more than one good idea. In accordance with our national custom a great deal of space was given the ill natured remarks about our artists, altho it has long been recognized that the only criticism, regardless of what the target is, that is worth anything is that which is constructive in character. We like to be insulted, however, and we get what we invite.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Q. What is the name of the college in the south that is giving a course in humor?

A. The University of Florida at Gainesville has a course designed to develop a sense of humor. It is listed in the catalog as "types of humorous literature."

DR. BRADY'S HEALTH TALK.

In a previous talk we pointed out that both underweight young adults and overweight adults of mature age (over 35) are more susceptible to pneumonia and less capable of recovering from the illness than are normal persons.

Underweight and overweight, however, are by no means the only indications of faulty nutrition or nutritional deficiency. Perhaps the great majority of individuals who suffer from nutritional disorders, whether in mild, latent functional degree or as a clearly defined nutritional disease presenting characteristic organic changes, are neither underweight nor overweight.

From experimental observation or study, animal feeding experiments, investigators have inferred that shortage of vitamin A in the daily food may be accountable for increased susceptibility to or rather failure to develop sufficient immunity from the cri. In case you haven't heard, the cri (kree) means any respiratory infection before its specific nature can be diagnosed, that is, in the stage when ignorant and vicious folk indiscriminately peddle the infection among all who come within conversational spray range, the while they try to excuse themselves for the crime by pretending it is "just a slight cold."

Altho I have been eagerly seeking practical evidence that vitamin A in adequate amount helps to maintain good immunity against respiratory infection, I am bound to admit I have not yet found any convincing evidence, and I am beginning to doubt whether deficiency of vitamin A occurs at all in this country, altho I know deficiency of vitamins B, G, C and D are quite common even if not recognized or diagnosed or suspected by the physician. So many common foods in the form or condition usually ingested contain vitamin A that it seems unlikely that anyone should get insufficient vitamin A, unless his diet is extraordinarily restricted. A 6 months old infant gets a thousand units of vitamin A in a quart of milk. Yolk of egg, banana, spinach, butter or cream, etc., supply additional vitamin A. Tomato juice, fresh or factory (vacuum process) canned, supplies about the same amount of vitamin C as orange juice and about six or seven times as much A as does orange juice.

I believe shortage of vitamin D, which is almost universal in infancy and probably far more frequent in childhood and adolescence than has been recognized in the past, may be the vitamin factor which is concerned in immunity to the cri. A teaspoonful of fish liver oil contains 300 units of vitamin D and 2,000 units of vitamin A. Perhaps this fact accounts for inaccurate inferences from the use of fish liver oils for the prevention of and treatment of respiratory infections. In practice there is more convincing evidence of the value of vitamin D for this purpose. I should advise vitamin D instead of vitamin A for anyone who is unduly susceptible to respiratory infection.

BRAKEMAN HURT AS CARS LEAVE TRACK

Section Fast C. B. & Q. Train Piles Up After Jumping Rails at Mullen.

MULLEN, Neb. (P). Twenty-eight cars of a fast eastbound Burlington railroad freight train piled up after leaving the tracks near the Mullen depot Wednesday night and Leo Devine of Alliance, a brakeman, was injured. His elbow was dislocated and he was bruised badly.

J. B. Jolley, depot agent, said the cause of the wreck could not be determined until daylight. Several hundred feet of track were torn up, he said. Traffic probably will be delayed about six or seven hours until a temporary track is laid around the wreckage, Jolley said.

The train was traveling about 35 miles an hour and Engineer Fowler of Alliance stopped it immediately. Devine was thrown from the step of the caboose but the car itself did not leave the tracks. Conductor W. H. Beach of Alliance, who was inside, was uninjured.

The 28 cars, containing merchandise and crude oil, were in the middle of the train, the agent said. Nine cars were ahead of them and 14 were behind. Several of the derailed cars, he said, were piled three deep.

The accident occurred "about 20 rails east of the depot," Jolley said. He notified the railroad's divisional offices at Alliance and several officials left immediately for Mullen. The freight is known as No. 78 on the Lincoln-Billings main line.

BAKER FOUND GUILTY.

A jury in District Judge Broady's court Wednesday afternoon found Glen Baker guilty of the theft of $48.44 worth of tie plates from the Burlington railroad on July 28. Baker was charged with stealing 216 of these plates which had been placed along the railroad for use in making repairs. The 216 plates weighed 2,540 pounds.

Convict Hides Month Under Prison Building Trying Vainly for Escape

FORT MADISON, Ia. (P). A Fort Madison prison guard pulled Liter H. M. Evans from beneath the floor of a small prison building used as a hospital ward, here and "captured" a convict who had never escaped.

He was back in solitary confinement Thursday.

For more than a month, tho, officers over the country have been hunting this Turin, Ia., bank robber and longtime criminal who once escaped from Leavenworth federal prison, who once broke out of the state reformatory at Monroe, Wash.

Yet, all the time since Oct. 25 when he turned up missing after a prison football game, he lived in a burrow under the building. At night he would come out, slink about the prison yard and try to find some way over the walls, then scurry back to his haven when dawn came and found him still a prisoner.

Prison officials reasoned Evans slipped away with the crowd of outsiders who came to see the convicts play football. "That's what I figured you'd figure," Evans told guards Wednesday, "that you would never think to look for me right here in the prison.

"So when I found I could get under the building thru some of the loose boards, I cached all the food and water I could. I've lived mostly on bread, cheese and chocolate bars I bought at the canteen. When it began to run low, a couple of the 'lungers' (the building is used to house tuberculosis patients) started slipping me what they could.

"I had a golf ball rigged up with a string which I thought I could toss over an upright on one of the cell houses and then pull up a rope I'd made. If I could have got on top that cell house I could have got over the wall. I waited tho for some time before trying it, because I figured all the fuss about me escaping would die down and I'd have a better chance of not getting picked up.

"But did you ever try throwing a golf ball around one of those uprights? I've tried it night after night and I couldn't get it to come down right, or else the string got caught.

"I finally gave it up and figured to just lay low and wait for a break. I'd have just gone on living under that building. I had nothing to lose. I wonder how that bull got wise to me." Which was something prison officials declined to explain.

HOOVER SEES DANGER OF MORE DEPRESSION

Says Industry Must Pass on to Consumer Lowered Production Cost.

NEW YORK. (P). Former President Hoover asserted in an address that the nation is headed toward another depression unless industry finds some way to pass on to the consumer the lowered costs made possible by labor saving machinery.

"I am convinced," he said, "that when we fully understand the economic history of the period of the 20's, we shall find that the debacle which terminated another apparently highly prosperous period, was largely contributed by a failure of industry to pass its improvements on to the consumer."

"We are headed in that same direction today," he added solemnly, "unless we can bring the intelligence and courage of the engineer into industrial statesmanship."

Hoover spoke at a dinner of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in honor of Ambrose Swasey, Cleveland engineer and humanitarian, who was presented the Herbert Hoover medal. He will be 90 next Dec. 19.

Cruiser officers located the car of Jack Schmall, 168 West E, early Wednesday morning near 25th and N after it had been stolen from his home sometime Tuesday night. Wednesday evening, a few hours after Mrs R. C. Patterson reported the theft of her husband's car from a garage in the rear of the Palisade apartments, 17th and D, officers found it on H st. across from the capitol. Two other autos stolen Wednesday evening, those of Lawrence Turner, 2124 O, and F. A. Walkington, 1340 J, had not been recovered by midnight.

LUNDY, SANTO IN RACE.

J. W. Lundy of Lincoln would rather be sergeant at arms of the legislature than a member. He filed as a candidate but withdrew with the announcement that he would try for the humbler post in the legislature. While living at Sargent Lundy served three sessions in the house and later as sergeant at arms of that body. He has had six years experience in dealing with members of the legislature and the public attending sessions. George Santo, who was assistant sergeant of the senate two years ago, is also a candidate for sergeant in the one chamber legislature. George W. Kirk of Pierce, sergeant of the last house, and Mark Lukens of Bloomfield, assistant sergeant in the last house, are also candidates. Lukens served three terms in the double barreled legislature as a member of the house.

ARCH MASONS' HEAD NAMES TWO 'IN LINE'

Poucher, Wilcox Appointed and Smith and Pitman Re-elected.

OMAHA. (P). Nile O. Walther of Fremont, newly elected grand high priest of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Nebraska, appointed two men "in line" at the order's 70th annual convention Wednesday. They are William T. Poucher of Tekamah, grand master, second veil, and Paul A. Wilcox of Omaha, grand master, first veil. Wilcox is the retiring grand master of the grand council, Royal and Select Masters of Nebraska, the other body of York Rite Masons which held it annual assembly here Tuesday.

Lewis E. Smith of Omaha won re-election as grand secretary of the Royal Arch Masons, and Benjamin F. Pitman of Chadron, as grand treasurer. Reappointed were Rev. Luther M. Kuhns of Omaha as grand chaplain, and Luther B. Hoyt of Omaha as grand sentinel.

Earlier in the day the Nebraska Veterans Free Masons association heard reminiscenses of early Masonic activities in the state by Bishop George Allen Beecher of Hastings. Noah H. Ryan of Beatrice was named fifth vice president and new man "in line."

Dr. A. S. Pinto of Omaha, reporting at the Royal Arch Masons session as chairman of the committee on the Nebraska Masonic home at Plattsmouth, said finances of the home were in excellent condition. The home has 94 residents. A memorial service was held for LeRoy Parks of Grand Island, past deputy grand high priest, and other members who have died during the year. The order of high priesthood was conferred on all high priests-elect at a ceremony following the grand chapter dinner Wednesday night.

The order elected the following officers: Harold H. Thom, Omaha, most excellent president; John T. Dysart, Omaha, vice president; Benjamin F. Pittman, Chadron, treasurer, and Lewis E. Smith, Omaha, recorder.

CAPETOWN, South Africa. (P). Capt. James A. Mollison and his French co-pilot, Edouard Corniglion-Molinier, were found safe after they had vanished within 100 miles of here.

They were found by a farmer near Weisdrift, a community about 214 miles south of Bredasdorf, which is about 100 miles east of here.

Their plane was not damaged and they expected to resume the flight Thursday.

The fliers said they flew over the farm Wednesday but, finding they could not climb over the mountainous country between there and Capetown, decided to turn back and land before dark.

DROP IN RELIEF COST MAY REACH 33 PERCENT

Resettlement Will Receive Part of Drouth Cases to Be Cut Out by WPA.

WASHINGTON. (P). A possible 33 percent reduction in federal relief costs next year was suggested by works progress administration plans to trim relief rolls to about 2,000,000 cases by January, as compared with approximately 3,000,000 the first of this year.

Officials said the WPA planned to drop 250,000 drouth cases within the next month, and 175,000 workers on other projects were being dropped under a retrenchment program begun Sept. 1. The objective is to cut 425,000 from the 2,511,000 persons enrolled on that date.

If the program is carried thru, it will cut the monthly relief bill to 120 millions at the beginning of 1937 as compared with a peak of more than 185 millions last winter, unless the individual costs rise.

The resettlement administration plans to take over approximately 60,000 of the drouth relief cases to be dropped by WPA. Officials said they were investigating the cases to see which would qualify for the $22 a month drouth rehabilitation dole program.

HOME TO COST HALF MILLION

Doris Duke Cromwell Settles Pool Problem.

HONOLULU. (P). Mrs. Doris Duke Cromwell after a swim in "sissy" waves, said she still plans to build a half-million dollar winter home here, now that the swimming pool problem is apparently settled. The tobacco fortune heiress arrived Wednesday from San Francisco on the Japanese liner Asama Maru and went to Waikiki beach for a dip. The "water was fine but waves too sissy" for surf-board riding. After the Honolulu harbor board refused permission to the Cromwells to build a beach-front swimming pool on their estate, they acquired adjoining property which contained a pool. Mrs. Cromwell said she expected her husband to join her in January.

SUDDENLY, after tiresome miles of nervous driving on ordinary roads, a pleasing gray ribbon of true and even concrete swings into view. Jolts . . . wheel-kicks . . . tire grumbling . . . nervous tension slip behind you. You settle back at ease. Your fingers relax their grip on the wheel. Motoring regains its zest. You're on smooth, non-skid concrete, where driving is a pleasure.

Concrete roads are safer. You're less apt to skid. You'll stop more quickly, more smoothly. Your tires are less apt to blow out. Visibility is better. You drive more easily, more skilfully—because you're relaxed.

You save in gas, tires and car repairs on concrete compared with inferior surfaces.

Seek concrete roads. Stay on them. Demand them.

"Concrete pavement in Nebraska has saved more than one-half a million dollars in highway maintenance costs during the last five years. Concrete pavement carries the heaviest traffic in the state at less cost per mile for upkeep than any other type of surfacing. That's why it is wise—and economical—to build concrete roads."

William A. Ehlers, Omaha attorney, appealed two cases to the supreme court Thursday. In one he was adjudged by the district court at Omaha of being guilty of contempt because he had not answered questions asked of him before a notary public after he had been directed to make answer. He claimed that this would be a violation of confidence as attorney for a loan association, but the district court said this was true only of some of the questions. In the other case he had been refused an attorney fee of $1,500 payable out of the estate of Thomas M. Alexander, who left a $35,000 estate to 14 heirs. One of these, a son, objected to the allowance of claims of $2,500 to W. M. Ely and $2,250 to H. D. Curtiss, for legal services, and to the accounts of the administrators. Ehlers represented him, but the lower court held his services could not be paid for out of the estate.

Suit of Mrs. Emily Ferguson against the National Assurance corporation and L. L. Waters, an officer of the company, for $4,050 went to trial Thursday to a jury in District Judge Broady's court. She claims she pledged 90 shares of stock of the company to cover an indebtedness of her husband, W. H. Ferguson of $2,178. The company claims that Ferguson owed the company $3,802 on Sept. 14, 1932. The company sold the stock and applied the amount received $2,025 on the indebtedness. Mrs Ferguson claims that the stock was pledged to cover only an indebtedness previous to that time and this had been paid. The Fergusons were divorced and a property settlement made. The company claimed that Mrs. Ferguson had not claimed an interest in the stock and that she is estopped from recovering. She placed a valuation of $45 a share on the stock. The stock, the company says, was put up and assigned by Ferguson as his stock.

KING WINS THE FIRST ROUND

there does not at present exist any constitutional difficulty, the situation is of such a nature as to make it inexpedient that I should be questioned about it at this stage."

Baldwin was reputedly threatening, with the support of his opposition, mass cabinet resignation unless the king renounces any idea of marrying Mrs Simpson

The excited, astonished people of the British Isles and their dominions were engulfed by a sudden flood of vivid publicity about their sovereign and his friend, groping for a decision and a stand with king or cabinet

The Anglican church openly opposed any alliance whatsoever between the king and Mrs. Simpson

Rumors ran like lightning that the king had abdicated that the announcement was imminent A government source said the rumors were not true

Speculation immediately turned to whether the king, for the time being, had swept Baldwin's attack away by advising him he had made no arrangements to marry Mrs. Simpson, and had no intention of doing so unless he had the support of his ministers for an arrangement of his private life satisfactory to himself, church and government.

Winston Churchill sought without avail to determine whether Baldwin would ensure that no irrevocable step would be taken before commons was told of it.

King to Fight It Out.

King Edward let it be known he will fight to the finish on the constitutional issue which has been raised against him by his ministers' insistence that he renounce his twice divorced friend.

If he loses it might even mean abdication—but those who know the king well said that even that extreme would not break up his friendship for the woman.

The British public, was learning of Mrs Simpson's association with the king thru newspapers which finally named the American woman after weeks of veiled comment.

An authoritative source stated the cabinet, having told the ruler exactly how the situation stood, was waiting for him to make the next move.

In later trading, stock exchange dealings showed some recovery from early declines with industrials steady but hotel shares weak.

Reports that the London stock exchange might close until the crisis is settled circulated in provincial cities.

"The Warfields (Mrs. Simpson's Maiden name) in Baltimore were an American branch of a distinguished English family," the London Evening Standard declared.

Sir Ralph Harwood, financial secretary to the king, announced his retirement from the royal service. Reports spread immediately he had disagreed with the king's obstinate stand against a stubborn cabinet.

Whatever the outcome it was learned on excellent authority, Mrs. Simpson probably will soon seek seclusion on the continent or in an ocean voyage.

She will stay by his side until the king, himself, sanctions her departure, moreover.

Church Paper Says "No."

The Church of England will not have Mrs. Simpson as king Edward's wife at any price, the church times, organ of the Church of England, declared. Because of the fundamental effect it would have on the relations between church and state.

Lloyds underwriters, besieged by anxious merchants apt to lose money in the event of postponement of next May's coronation, stopped quoting rates against a possibly delay. Most of the underwriters said they had their books full, that they did not like to take more of such business, or "yesterday's rate of 25 guineas per 100 is now out of the question."

Friends of the king, meanwhile, said he welcomed the new light of publicity on his romance and believed the masses of the people would sympathize with his problems.

TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks — and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out in this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

JOHN D., JR., GAVE THE G. O. P. $70,000

Doris Duke Cromwell Donated Democrats $50,000 for Campaign.

WASHINGTON, (AP). Senate investigators reported that John D. Rockefeller, jr., gave $70,000 to republican campaign funds, while democratic organizations received $50,000 from Mrs. James R. H. Cromwell, formerly Doris Duke, the tobacco heiress.

Their contributions were included in a list of large donations compiled by the special senate committee investigating spending in the recent campaign.

The committee said it hoped to trace the source of most of the $13,000,000 spent by scores of political organizations in the last campaign, as a basis for legislative recommendations to the president and congress.

Investigators said they expected to seek "far more drastic restrictions" on campaign expenditures than those imposed by present law.

The list made public showed gifts totaling $50,100 from Alfred P. Sloan, jr., of New York, president of General Motors company, to 15 anti-new deal agencies.

His contributions included $5,000 to the crusaders, $3,000 to the volunteers, and from $3,000 to $5,000 each to the republican state committee of Maine, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota.

CRITICIZES SS PLAN.

Declaring the social security act an unwieldy combination of three important features which should have been handled separately, O. R Martin of the university addressed Knife and Fork club Thursday. "The permanent national debt which must be created by the reserve and its interest of 3 percent is also a disturbing feature," he said. "The United States is going off half cocked in a program of which there is too little previous experience to draw conclusions."

TENANT WANTS DAMAGES

Asks Approval of Judgment Because Wife Slapped.

Verner Markel told the supreme court in a brief filed Thursday that it should affirm the $1,250 judgment he secured in Cass county against the landlord of his Otoe county farm, Richard Glassmeyer, because of injuries suffered by Mrs. Markel in an assault by Glassmeyer. The latter had called with a lawyer to collect overdue rent, and he and Mrs. Markel became involved in a heated argument in which he said the Markels had the reputation of not paying their debts and she retorted that his reputation was not so hot. She said this made him mad and that he "popped me a good one on my cheek,' while he said she started for him and that all he did was hold her off. This occurred on a farm near Talmage, Feb. 5, 1934

Markel says that a husband may recover damages when by the act of another he is deprived of the society and aid about the house and farm of his wife, and that there is no force to the claim of Glassmeyer that the fact that she was unable to attend church, picture shows or dances was of financial advantage to him, because he was saved the expense attached. He says that is not the law. To the claim that Judge Livingston was so biased and prejudiced in his conduct during the trial that a fair trial was impossible, it is asserted that no objection to what he did was entered until after the case had been lost by Glassmeyer. Markel was not at home at the time, but his hired man rescued the wife after punching the landlord. He said Glassmeyer followed up the slap by grabbing her and treating her roughly.

WPA LOADS ARE CUT IN MIDWEST STATES

Nebraska Quota Cut From 30,000 to 19,000; Mostly Farmers on Rolls.

CHICAGO. (UP) Regional WPA officials announced that the 13 midwestern states between Ohio and Nebraska will reduce their WPA loads from 946,977 to 797,000 between now and Dec. 15. Shortage of relief funds made the reduction imperative Regional Administrator Hunter said.

Most of those released from WPA jobs will be farmers, who may apply to the resettlement administration for aid. But RA officials said its aid would be approximately half that paid farmers working on PWA projects.

Most of the $1,400,000,000 appropriated by the last congress for relief has been expended and funds must be conserved until the new congress, which meets Jan. 5, can appropriate more money, WPA announced. Quotas for the 13 states in region four compared with their present employment figures as announced by Hunter's office were:

State	Present load	New quota
Illinois	176,219	160,000
Indiana	68,569	65,000
Iowa	30,878	26,000
Kansas	54,757	42,000
Kentucky	60,503	51,000
Michigan	71,662	70,000
Minnesota	50,090	45,000
Missouri	93,072	85,000
Nebraska	20,867	19,000
North Dakota	40,933	20,000
Ohio	144,216	140,000
South Dakota	40,724	22,000
Wisconsin	74,417	62,000

WPA officials said all farmers on WPA drouth relief projects will be dismissed before Jan. 1. Approximately 59,000 farmers will be retained between Dec. 15 and Jan. 1.

The WPA load is considerably lower than a year ago, Hunter said. A total of 895,767 persons were employed in the region during the period ending Dec. 28, 1935.

A NEW SEARCH KING RANCH

Report Evidence in Disappearance Two Hunters.

SAN PERLITA, Tex. (AP). Six men, armed with what Constable Ernest Oakes termed "surprising" evidence, headed into the million acre King ranch in search of Luther and John Blanton, missing duck hunters. Oakes said information from a north Texas police department pointed toward possible location of the bodies of the farmers who disappeared mysteriously on a hunting trip Nov. 18. The constable also asserted that two Mexicans who rode thru the ranch property two days after the Blantons vanished had made written statements their horses were taken from them at Norias, 25 miles north of Raymondville, by two Americans who told them to "get out of the country." Residents have expressed anger in the past over hunting restrictions on the ranch land. Recently they threatened an armed invasion because of the Blanton mystery but were pacified by a ranger's assurance that everything possible was being done. One of the ranch owners emphasized his desire that the mystery be solved.

GRAND ISLAND, (UP). More than 200 eastern delegates to the national convention of the American farm bureau stopped off here to go on a sightseeing trip of midwestern farming activities. What to Eat To Get Strength-Building Iodine Into Blood and Glands

Science Says Regular Ration of NATURAL IODINE Is Needed To Build Up Weak, Rundown, Skinny Folks—Give Them New Energy, Endurance and Pep!

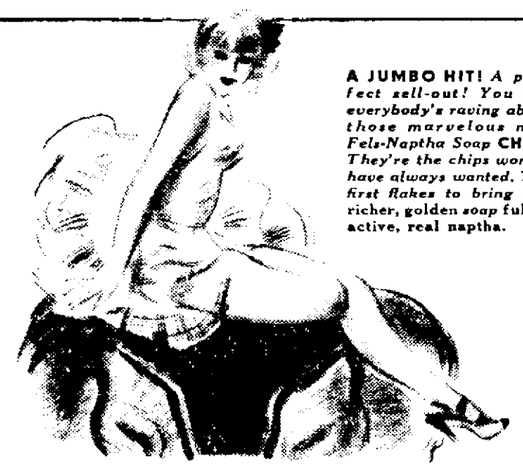

If you are weak, skinny and rundown—if you go around always tired, nervous, irritable, easily upset, the chances are your blood is thin, pale and watery and lacks the nourishment needed to build up your strength, endurance and the solid pounds of new flesh you need to feel right. Science has at last got right down to one of the real troubles with these conditions and explains a new, quick way to correct them.

Food and medicines can't help you much. The average person usually eats enough of the right kind of food to sustain the body. The real trouble is assimilation, the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, pep and energy. Tiny hidden glands control this body building process—glands which require a regular ration of NATURAL IODINE (not the ordinary coarse chemical iodine, but the iodine that is found in tiny quantities in spinach, lettuce, etc.). The simplest and quickest way to get this precious needed substance is Seedol Kelpamalt, the astonishing new mineral concentrate from the sea. Seedol Kelpamalt is 1300 times richer in iodine than oysters, hitherto considered the best source. With Seedol Kelpamalt's iodine, you quickly normalize your weight and strength building glands, promote assimilation, enrich the blood and build up a source of enduring strength. Seedol Kelpamalt, too, contains twelve other precious, vitally needed body minerals without which good digestion is impossible.

Try Seedol Kelpamalt for a single week. Notice how much better you feel, how well you sleep, how your appetite improves, color comes back into your cheeks. And if it doesn't add 5 lbs. of good solid flesh the first week, the trial is free. Your own doctor will approve this way. Seedol Kelpamalt costs but little. Sold at Harley Drug Co., and all other good drug stores.

HISTORY TO PRAISE F. D. R.'S LOFTY SPEECH

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON. (Copyright). Sometimes in the age in which men live their words are not appreciated in true significance, but history long afterward marks the final appraisal. Thus may it be said of President Roosevelt's speech at Buenos Aires that some day the historians will proclaim it as the finest speech on peace and democracy that has come from an American president since the immortal address of Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg.

The difference is, to be sure, that Mr Roosevelt spoke to the whole world as an audience and perhaps with not all his phrases as well balanced and as dramatic as the address of Mr. Lincoln, but no speech of an American president ever was dedicated to a loftier purpose or to a greater concept of human rights.

Those of us who have for many years been supporting the philosophy that the depression's disorders and social disturbances can rest be cured by the revival of world intercourse and the exchange of goods will derive peculiar satisfaction that Mr. Roosevelt has expressed himself so forcefully against the self-containment school of thought, the exponents of economic nationalism.

"The welfare and prosperity of each of our nations," says Mr. Roosevelt, "depends in large part on the benefits derived from commerce among themselves and with other nations, for our present civilization rests on the basis of an international exchange of commodities.....

"It is no accident that attempts to be self-sufficient have led to falling standards for their people and to ever-increasing loss of the democratic ideals in a mad race to pile armament on armament."

Describes Road to Fascism.

Mr. Roosevelt has described the road to fascism with telling accuracy, and he has appealed for liberal trade policies in line with the reciprocity treaties negotiated by Sec. Hull as a "beacon in a storm of economic madness which has been sweeping over the entire world during these later years."

The Buenos Aires speech of the president is tremendously significant from a domestic point of view. Mr. Roosevelt has accepted whole heartedly the doctrine of his great secretary of state, Cordell Hull, who has insisted that economic nationalism means regimentation, higher trade barriers, regulation of the life of the individual and regulation by the state of all enterprises.

Mr. Roosevelt has answered Secy. Wallace's famous query, expressed in his pamphlet, "America Must Choose." The president has said definitely that America chooses the way of international trade and not the way of self-containment.

Now, there have been trends and tendencies in the new deal that imply a rationing of employment within our borders and a domestic allotment policy of self sufficiency, but it is characteristic of the new deal that the forces within it are often opposite and that Mr. Roosevelt is accused of going to the right or the left according as he does along with some of the forces that tug away at him from different directions.

Many times during his speech, the president spoke of "democratic processes." He speaks of "strengthening of the processes of constitutional democratic government—to make these processes conform to the modern need for unity and efficiency, and, at the same time, preserve the individual liberties of our citizens."

No clearer statement of the dilemma of the United States at the moment has been made. No better description of the opposite forces that are contending for mastery of new deal policies and programs could be given. Mr. Roosevelt says frankly that "lack of social or political justice within the borders of any nation is always cause for concern" and that is what he no doubt meant when he referred to the need of making democratic processes conform to the "modern need for unity and efficiency."

Unbalanced Budgets Dangerous.

But there is a larger cause of social discontent and internal disturbance than just the absence of social justice. It is the desperate plight produced by unbalanced budgets. Thus, Germany today owes her fascism to the breakdown of her currency in 1923 with an inflation that swept property values aside and left the people impoverished. Under such burdens, they became progressively more desperate and found the world less and less sympathetic as they strove to find a way to build up export trade.

The economic chaos that results from a bad fiscal situation, continued borrowing without a system that assures repayment in a reasonable length of time, and a rise in prices that makes the cost of living for the poor unbearable, all this puts a strain on democratic government and brings dictatorship as seemingly the only way to avoid anarchy.

"If within ourselves and among ourselves," said Mr. Roosevelt, "we can give greater freedom and fulfillment to the individual lives of our citizens, the democratic form of representative government will have justified the high hopes of the liberating fathers."

That's the challenge. Can taxes be made sufficient to balance a budget? Can individual enterprise be retained even when necessary social regulation is applied? Can individual rights and individual thrift and work be encouraged when governmental agencies grant subsidies and doles and put on restrictions that prevent employment from being increased? That's America's domestic problem today, and Mr. Roosevelt's statement that he hopes to achieve economic prosperity without destroying individual freedom is a declaration of purpose of transcendent value in gauging the policies of his second administration.

To keep the spending extremists from driving America along paths of fiscal uncertainty to a dangerous inflation is the challenge to a deficit running administration, and when Mr. Roosevelt comes home he will find the nation even more eager to see his Buenos Aires speech applied concretely to the domestic problems of the day.

JAP MARINES TAKE SEAPORT

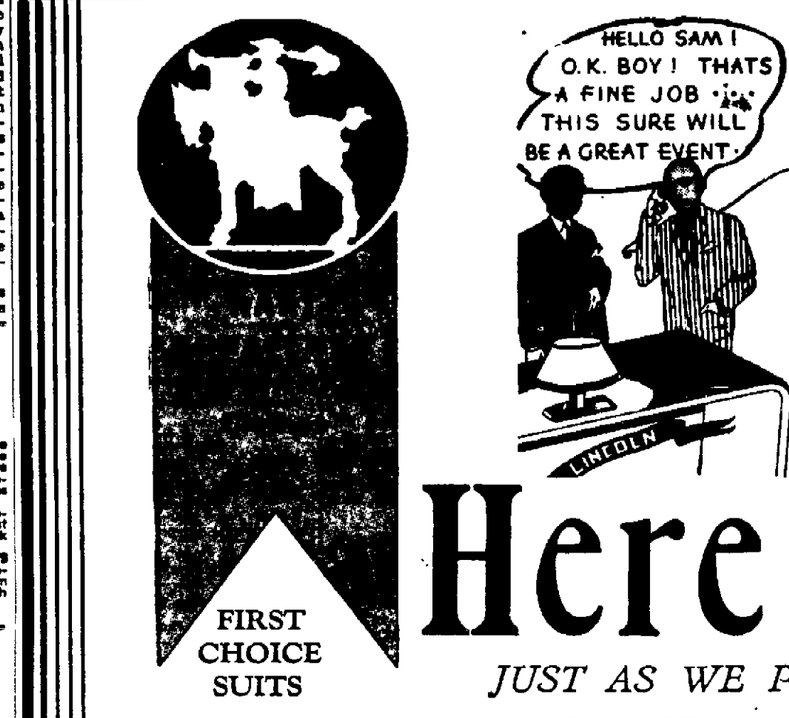

Occupy Tsingtao as "Precautionary Measure."

TSINGTAO, China. (UP). Japanese marines landed and occupied this Shantung seaport Thursday as Chinese workers in Japanese textile mills went on strike. Estimated at a battalion in strength—about 800 Japanese marines, fully equipped, took up strategic positions all over the city. At the same time, word was received that the Japanese flagship Idzumo was speeding here from Shanghai. Japanese officials, who seized authority from the Chinese municipal government, said their action was only "a precautionary measure."

JUSTICE DEPRESSED.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP). Prosperity's return "depresses" Justice of the Peace Joseph H. Baker, he said. "My business has dwindled to half what it was during the depression years," he explained. "With more money in circulation, more couples are having their marriages performed by clergymen. It depresses me."

Rose of Soledad

by GEORGE E. HOLT

"You did," persisted Teddy "Send for him and ask him to marry you. Now why?"

"You're a—a beast," retorted Rose. "A perfect beast. I hate you."

"No you don't, sis," said Teddy "You don't even think you do. . . . What happened?"

"Oh, nothing! Nothing!"

"What happened?"

The girl sank back, tears came to her eyes, she reached for a handkerchief.

"Mr O'Hara's a beast, too," she said. "I—I hate him. I wish—I wish he had never fallen into my tree. He's—I found a letter of his. In the room he had here. He's engaged to—to some cat—back east."

"Engaged! Oh, piffle!" said Teddy shortly. "Don't tell me that. Shane O'Hara isn't—isn't that sort of a man. He's a gentleman. I—I like him And he likes me. And he wouldn't like me if—if he was tryin' to doublecross my sister. It's all nonsense. You've been dreaming."

"I tell you I saw the letter. It was from a friend of his. It said: 'Why didn't you tell me—you were—engaged to Billy Porter—you old—old fox.' So there."

"I don't believe it," insisted Teddy. "Oh, I don't mean maybe you didn't see a letter, but I betcha Mr. O'Hara isn't engaged."

"Well, I am anyhow," said Rose, recovering her poise, growing cold. "And I'm going to marry Don Fernando pretty darned soon." She stalked away.

At that moment there came the sound of a distant auto horn. Teddy rose quickly, grabbed his crutch, hobbled as swiftly as he could toward the gate. A big car, with Shane O'Hara at the wheel, Jose alongside of him, swept down the road.

"I'll ask him, I will," said Teddy to himself. "He'll tell me. I bet he can explain."

The lame boy leaped along, one hand held up. But the big car was going too fast.

Shane saw him as the car whizzed past the gate, saw the uplifted hand. Misunderstanding, he waved in return.

Teddy Delane lowered his hand and groaned.

Scarcely was the car out of sight when Don Fernando rode thru the gate, saw Teddy sitting disconsolately beneath a tree. Stopped.

"Wasn't that O'Hara and Jose Verdugo went past in the car just now?" he asked.

Teddy nodded miserably.

"They're on their way to Mexico," he said, before he thought Why tell anybody anything? But what difference did it make, telling?

"Mexico, eh?" he said. "Well, adois Senor O'Hara."

But instead of continuing on to the house, he turned his horse and rode back toward Rancho La Espanola.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

Tijuana is not quite such a bad place as some folks say it is. Probably no place is. A sleepy little Mexican town when the United States went dry, Tijuana, San Diego's next door neighbor—but, fortunately, in the domain of Demon Rum — rubbed its eyes, yawned, looked about and perceived opportunity clamoring at its gates.

Fifteen years of prosperity followed

Liquor, horse racing, dog racing, gambling, dancing wine women, song—these brought a steady stream of pilgrims across the line from the virtuous country north, so great a line that new towns sprang up in California to accommodate guests. Tijuana grew to be a small city. It made money. So did San Diego. The district became the mecca for pilgrims from every state in the union. Like Coney Island in the old days.

People used to get robbed at Coney; so they did, once in a while, at Tijuana. But many an American finished a wild party with loss of memory, and, arising to a bitter dawn and empty pockets, proceeded to put up a yell that he had been "rolled by Mexicans."

Now and then somebody got killed. Quite true. When intoxicated American egotism, desiring to make the eagle scream, came in rude contact with a certain small pride that Mexicans have in the Mexican race, things sometimes happened. No doubt murder, deliberate murder, was committed. Just as in peaceful San Diego.

But the amazing thing about Tijuana was that so many thousands hundred of thousands, could go there, and get full of mixed drinks and enthusiasm without anything happening to them except headaches The Mexicans are a patient people. And like Americans, they are in no haste to kill geese who lay golden eggs for them.

So much in defense of the Tijuana known to every tourist. Beneath this Tijuana, however, has lived and moved, unseen by the casual guest, another town—the real town, Mexican in every molecule. And, like the under self of any town, that personality was dangerous. A border town, like San Diego, it profited by illicit traffic. In liquor, in dope, in aliens, in white slaves and brown slaves and slaves of any color. The demand came from the virtuous United States Mexico filled the orders, and shrugged its shoulders and commented briefly upon the non-understandable American.

But of this traffic, this vicious personality, the casual tourist saw as much as one can see of the other side of the moon. Returning he told wild tales—but tequila is a powerful potation, and so is bar whisky. And he heard tales, twice told tales, a thousand times told tales, growing with each telling. His honest heart grew sad at seeing the cafes, the dance halls, crowded with girls—American girls mostly. White slaves? Sure. Except that most of them were married to bartenders or musicians or cafe owners or curio dealers.

Tijuana died when beer was again legalized. It is now a ghost town, the veins pinched out.

But when Shane O'Hara and Jose Verdugo drove their car across the line, that summer afternoon, a thousand cars had preceded them, a thousand others were stringing south along the King's Highway from Los Angeles.

Their plan—their immediate plan—had been decided upon on the way down. They would go to the house of one of Jose's innumerable cousins, on the southern outskirts of the town, and from there make, or set on foot, inquiries which should result in locating the man they sought, Rodrigo, who liked to be known as Vibora de Cascabel—the Rattlesnake. When he was discovered, they would seize him as quietly as possible, force him to tell what he knew—"make him rattle" as Jose expressed the idea—and then, if it were possible, take him back to the other side of the line and turn him over to the sheriff's forces. For by this time there was no longer any doubt left in the minds of either of them that the Rattlesnake had at least been concerned in the killing of Black Sam, and certainly was a member of a gang engaged in illicit traffic across the line.

Jose had at first owned to an idea of a more direct treatment. they would catch Senor Rattlesnake and after making him confess that he had killed Black Sam, Jose would proceed to cut his heart out and make him eat it. But the persuasions of Shane had modified this idea. Jose would alter his plan tho regretfully, if Shane thought it for the best

"Altho, senor," he said, "I t'ink we make one meestake. You keel one feller, you know where that feller ees You no keel him, nobody know where the hell he ees."

Much Progress Made By Modern Surgeons

Operations Now Performed With a Minimum of Risk to Patients, Copeland Says

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

IT WAS not long ago that the very word "operation" created alarm and even a great deal of anxiety in the minds of laymen. Today, I am glad to say, the public is not so afraid of operative procedure.

But there are still many persons who dread the "knife". Because of this, they avoid what is really necessary surgery. They fail to realize that the danger of neglect is far greater than that of the operation.

Let me tell you a few things about the development of surgery. The beginning of surgery actually dates back to the days of the ancient Egyptians and Romans. This has been confirmed by the finding of over 200 surgical instruments in the ruins of Pompeii. Recently, in the museums of Naples and Cairo, I saw many of them. Undoubtedly these instruments were perfected as a result of war and the need of saving the lives of valiant warriors.

Father of Surgery

Little was done to advance surgery during the Middle Ages. In fact it was forbidden to shed blood by operative procedure or to dissect the body. But shortly after the discovery of America, modern surgery had its beginning. The birth of Ambrosise Pare was a memorable event. He became the father of modern surgery. Serving under four kings of France, he made of surgery a dignified profession.

Pare used the ligature for tying off blood vessels and denounced the practice of cauterizing wounds with hot irons. Before then, there was no other known way to stop bleeding. In their place he used bland ointments.

Pare was the first to recognize that within the patient himself were the means of recovery. Before that, sick men got well in spite of the treatment given. He is remembered by his famous saying, "I dressed him; God healed him".

Following Pare came other great surgeons and scientists who contributed to the success of surgical procedure. Among these are numbered John Hunter, Lister, Louis Pasteur, McDowell and many others. They did away with the barbaric methods of operating.

Many Advances Made

Today, surgeons are trained over a period of years. Invention and discovery in the arts and sciences promoted the practice of surgery. Thanks to these advances, an operation can be performed with the minimum of risk to the patient. Unnecessary pain and discomfort are no longer inflicted upon the victim.

Living in this age, it is unwise for anyone to deny himself the benefits of modern surgery. If an operation has been advised, do not become alarmed or panicky about it. Remember that delay merely makes the procedure more complicated in the long run. Often a delay of a few hours may mean the difference between life and death.

If there is any doubt in your own mind as to whether or not you need an operation, consult with your doctor. If necessary, he will refer you to a surgeon for an opinion. Remember that surgery is no longer experimental; it has become a pretty exact science and art.

Answers to Health Queries

C. M. Q.—What can be done to overcome "gas"? This condition is worse in the morning about two hours after breakfast and I seem to get relief as soon as I eat again I eat and sleep well and there seems to be nothing wrong otherwise.

A.—This may be due to a number of causes. Avoid haste and nervousness when eating. For further particulars send a stamped self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

Married Comrades

I WAS ON my feet as the first sound of Mrs. Ticer's voice came to my ears, and was at the dining room door by the time she was uttering the threat to slap Katie if she did not immediately admit her to my presence.

I knew that it was no idle threat on Mrs. Ticer's part, and I did not need her further adjuration that it was a matter of "life and death" to lend wings to my feet as I rushed toward the kitchen.

"'At a girl!" I heard Harry Underwood's voice calling the encouragement after me, and I also heard Dicky say, commandingly, "Sit still, Mother, Madge will manage them."

I tossed a thankful paean back in my husband's direction, and sped on to the kitchen, reaching it just in time to save Katie from the slap my neighbor had promised. Mrs. Ticer's hand was raised, Katie's fist was clenched, and the faces of both women resembled freshly-boiled beets more than anything else.

"Katie! Mrs. Ticer!" I gasped, rushing between them, so that a blow from either of them would have fallen upon me. "What does this mean?"

Katie Is Angry

The question had directly opposite effects upon the two women. Katie's excitement increased almost to the exploding point, while Mrs. Ticer became calm and wary.

"Vot does mean?" Katie demanded rhetorically. "You ask your Katie dot ven she guard' g you mit her life? Dees vomans vould have keel me eef you not toom in, und all shoost because I so let her in to talk to you. You know vot's in dining room -" her tone suggested that we had at least the horror man of some old European castle cooped up in the dining room—"und you know nobody outside familee must see. Und den dis boonch of soup greens—"

"Stop this at once, Katie!" I said sternly at this epithet so characteristic of her moments of stress. I had left her run on with the hope that she would exhaust her temper in speech, as she so often does. But in justice to Mrs. Ticer, I could brook her tirade no longer. Then, deliberately, I administered a punishment fitting to her crime.

"You need keep nothing from Mrs. Ticer, Katie. She knows all about the man in the dining room not being my father."

I stopped short, remembering too late that Mrs. Ticer did not yet know that the impersonator of my father was not his twin brother, but Allen Drake. But I managed to flash a signal of finger to lips as Katie flung her apron over her head with a strangled cry.

"Oh-h!" she wailed. "Und I tink I know special secret, und now efery stranger know eet."

I glanced fearfully at Mrs. Ticer, but she was smiling grimly, with her common sense triumphing over her patent desire to administer well-deserved physical chastisement to Katie.

"I must see you alone for a minute," she said, "and at once. As I told you, it may be life or death."

I made my decision instantly.

"Go into my study," I said. "I will come to you there in a minute."

She shot one disdainful and triumphant glance at Katie which I was glad my tempestuous household helper could not see through her upflung apron and walked out of the room with her head held high. No sooner had the door closed after her than Katie's apron came down from her face and her wails began again.

"Oh, Meesis Graham, my Meesis Graham," she pleaded, "you no goin' shame your Katie by having secrets mit dot vomans, und me know nodings."

ONLY A DREAM?

Goodnight Stories

By MAX TRELL

"OH, IF only we could meet a movie star!" Frank said to his sister, Dinah, the other afternoon.

"Shirley Temple's playing in a picture today in the theater around the corner," Dinah said.

"Yes, but—but we can't meet her. It's just a picture of her."

Dinah nodded. "That's right."

Knarf and Hanid, the shadows of the two children, glanced at each other from the floor.

"I could bring Shirley Temple over here," Knarf whispered to Hanid.

"You can't go now. We have to stay with the children."

"I know. I'll wait until they go to bed."

So as soon as the children went to bed, Knarf ran as fast as he could to the theater around the corner. He didn't wait to buy a ticket—shadows don't need tickets to anything—but went right into the theater.

And there, on the screen, was Shirley Temple.

Meets Shirley Temple

"Hello Shirley!" Knarf called.

She didn't seem to hear him, so he went closer. In fact, he went right up to the screen, and right into the picture. Then Shirley noticed him. She smiled very prettily and said: "I'm glad to see you."

"I'm glad to see you, too, Shirley. Will you come home and meet Frank and Dinah? They want to meet you."

"Oh," exclaimed Shirley, "I could not come now. I have to wait until the picture is finished."

"Hello Shirley!" Knarf called.

So Knarf waited; and the minute the picture was over he ran out and took her hand and led her out through the back of the screen.

Then Knarf ran with Shirley around the corner to the house where Frank and Dinah was sleeping; and Knarf said: "Now you can meet them."

"But they're asleep!"

"Oh, that's nothing," said Knarf. "Just get into their dreams."

And that's just what Shirley did.

And the next morning, at breakfast, both children told mother: "We dreamt about Shirley Temple last night."

Now wasn't that lovely?

WHAT PUBLIC LIKES.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP). Each to his own taste, but Prof. Paul A. Witty of the Northwestern university school of education finds, after eight years of study, that Americans like to do these things best in their spare time: Read newspapers, listen to the radio, watch movies, play bridge, drive autos, and go to parties.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

"Dear Chief:

"While the depression was on it was the fashion to blame it for every misfortune known to man, from industrial failure to whooping cough. Its influence was so pervasive that it was only natural it should rear its ugly head even at the bridge table. The order of the day was conservation. The only virtue of a purchase lay in its inexpensiveness. Thus when a bridge player could win a trick with an eight spot he would have been considered nutty to have expended an honor.

"But now that good times have returned on golden wings there is no such excuse for penuriousness among bridge players. The declarer, in the hand I am sending you, must not have heard that the depression is over.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

"The bidding was, I think, correct in all particulars: South first sounding out major suit possibilities and then, when North rebid his clubs, having a go at three no trump. The subsequent play, however, left something to be desired.

"West opened the seven of diamonds and there was no reason to look on this lead as anything but an honest fourth best opening. The rule of eleven showed that there were no higher cards than a seven spot in East's hand, since all four were in declarer's sight, and this conclusion should have been strengthened when East played the five spot on dummy's three. But probably all the declarer thought was 'here is a dirt cheap trick.' He actually chortled as he scooped it in with the eight. He then led his singleton club and finessed. East, not knowing whether his partner or declarer had the missing club, properly held off, and declarer now cashed the club ace and led a third round to clear the suit just as though he knew how he was going to get back into dummy. Needless to say, he did not get back.

"West won the king on the third round and laid down the king of hearts. Declarer won and, from that time, didn't do so well, finally winding up with two club tricks, two diamonds, two hearts, and one spade for a 200 point penalty.

"Without the aforesaid influence of the depression declarer might have been able to see that his one chance of reëntering dummy after the club suit was established lay in maintaining a diamond entry. The opening lead, therefore, should have been won by the ace, not the eight. With the king almost surely located on declarer's left (and if it wasn't there, there wasn't anything to be done about it), declarer could have established the clubs and later led up to the diamond queen in complete safety. West never could have prevented the diamond queen from becoming an entry, and it would have been a miracle if the defenders had taken more than three tricks in all.

"Some players never learn that a bridge table is not a bargain counter.

"Respectfully submitted,
"THE SPY."

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Partner opened the bidding with one no trump. Next hand passed. What should have been my response with the following?

♠ 10 8 6 3 ♥ 6 4 ♦ 9 7 5 4 3 2 ♣ J

Answer: Two diamonds. With a six card suit you should take out even without any honor strength. If partner now rebids two no trump you should bid three diamonds, which is a signoff bid.

MUSICAL CONVOCATION.

An instrumental program of outstanding excellence was presented at the Temple theater Wednesday afternoon when two instructors and eight students in the University of Nebraska school of music took part in the ninth musical convocation. A quintet consisting of flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon and French horn, a combination which, so far as is known, has never before been presented by the school of music, opened the concert. One wonders why the combination is not used more often.

The quintet played beautifully, with a high degree of technical excellence. The tone quality was soft and lovely. Personnel of the quintet was: Constance Baker, flute; Victor Molzer, oboe; Raymond Reed (instructor), clarinet; Ray Ryerson, bassoon, and Richard White, French horn. The second section of the program was taken by John Shildneck, instructor of trumpet and trombone, who received rousing applause for his presentation of three trumpet selections. The clarinet quartet, Robert Chambers, Harold Buxton, Minor Plumb and Raymond Reed, played with notable finesse. The program:

Rameau, Tambourin; Beethoven, Quintet, Op. 71, adagio-allegro, adagio, quasi allegretto (menuetto), allegro (rondo); Mozart, Concertante, woodwind quartet. Rossini, Cavatina, from "Barber of Seville"; Hartman, Facilia; Irish Folk Song, Londonderry Air, Mr. Shildneck. Crozse, Petit Quartet, first movement; Schubert, Menuet; De Bueris, Gavotte Classique; Mendelssohn, Canzonetta, clarinet quartet.

SUITS FOR DAMAGES.

Two suits were filed in district court Wednesday against the Western Asphalt Paving corporation and Jacob and Herbert Bauman, one by Cecil Smith for $5,300 and the other by Mae Smith, his wife, for $5,000. The suits grew out of a collision between a truck driven by Herbert Bauman and owned by Jacob Bauman and a car driven by Cecil Smith near Grafton on Aug. 31. The paving company was doing construction work and Bauman's truck was parked when the Smith car struck it. It is alleged that the paving company was negligent in not having barricades up where the construction work was being done. Attorney Robert A. Nelson filed the suits.

CANCEL LIGHT BILLS.

TECUMSEH, Neb.—When patrons of the electric light and power department went to the city hall to pay their current bills, due and payable the first three days of each month, they were handed their receipted bills, with the word "cancelled" over the face. Appended to the bills were Christmas greetings. The city officials gave a full month's service free to each of the city electric customers. Tecumseh has a municipally owned electric and water plant which has always operated at a profit, and the council decided at this time to turn a part of the dividends back to the patrons.

YOUR PROBLEMS
By Mary Gordon

Dear Mary Gordon I am pretty worried We have been married almost ten years My husband is a little past 30 years I am 27 years old

We have five children from one year to eight years We have been getting along nicely But we have our ups and downs just like most married couples I intend to tell the truth for this advice We neither one have been angels But always willing to work together to get along We go places together much some place to play cards or shows or dances or just any place

But I love my husband with all my heart We both love our children This is the advice I want from you and your readers

One night we went to a dance my husbands sister and her girl friend my husband and myself Altogether there were three couples of us From that night on for almost three months it has been nothing but worry for me This girl friend started running around with my husband knowing he was married and the father of five lovely children

She started breaking up our home Feeling sorry for my husband with so many to support So started spending her money on him Buying gas so she and my husband could go out riding Staying out till almost daylight She paying both their ways to the show buying beer for them while I stayed home thinking he was with some men I trusted him till I found this out She was supposed to be a friend of both ours What a friend But said she would leave town I thought that would be nice she would leave my husband alone But instead she starts writing love letters to him sending them places where she thought I wouldn t find it out And he returns love letters She is now trying to get him to leave town to come to her She says she loves him and will wait forever for him

Up till that night we both loved each other Now he says he loves her and not me But I still love him, and am not willing to give him up I never will give him freedom The children need us both This woman is 23 years old Tells my husband she could work when they are married to help him support the children and me I am a mother and lady enough not to take help that way

Do you think this woman has a right to love my husband and do what she is doing to break our home? What should I do? I love and trust my husband, keep myself clean and am still slim and good looking

Can some one tell me what to do I have talked to this woman but dont do any good Will be waiting for your advice

My husband was working on PWA but is not even working on that now He is good to me with what money he has to get what we need Always willing to work —A Broken Hearted Mother

A I wish from the bottom of my heart, that I could tell you what to do so that your husband would again become the kind loving husband he once was, and the good provider

You must see, however, that it is not all the girls fault She must have some encouragement from him

What you should do is to try to bear it with patience and not nag or scold Insist that the children be supported properly, even if you have to go to the juvenile judge to see that your husband does it

He will grow tired of her, after while Stand by your rights and refuse to give him his freedom If he asks for a divorce go to the judge and frankly tell him your story I m sure he will come back one of these days a sadder and a wiser man The girl in the case will find some other man who hasnt a wife and five children to support who will look better to her

Dear Mary Gordon I have a problem that I would like you and your readers to help me answer

I am 18 Last year I met a fellow, Bud He is about six months my junior We dated for about three months He asked me to marry him I couldnt because I was not in love with him and I think people should not marry until they are a little older

Bud became angry He talked about me and humiliated me in front of people He teased me because I let other men do things for me like opening doors It has got so I can hardly stand it

Then he wouldnt speak to me only when he wanted me to do something for him Like return library books or take him somewhere in my car

I want to win him back as a friend How can I? He is not a very sociable person, I mean he doesnt mix with groups of young people He keeps mostly to himself Not bragging any I know lots of people and am very popular and he is the only person of my acquaintance who doesnt seem to like me enough to say hello

Will you please answer this real soon as I am going away soon and I will not get to read The Journal —Peg

A He evidently gets pleasure out of realizing that his teasing and indifference annoy you Start being indifferent yourself

And after all if he makes himself such a nuisance, why you would want him for a friend is what I can't see

MALLON

WASHINGTON Acting State Secretary Moore romped upon the French government propaganda feelers for a war debt settlement with more vehemence than diplomats customarily employ There was a reason

Mr Moore is a gentleman of the old congressional school which teaches that war debts is a topic taboo in all political aspects If he did not recall his early teaching in congress Vice President Garner could have reminded him as Mr Garner voted against the original debt settlements

This prevailing congressional school recognizes the practical fact that the voters out in the country believe the furriners chiseled us on the settlement, and they did in varying degrees It also holds that European statesmen would not now be reopening the subject unless they had something of benefit to themselves in mind and that also is not an illogical assumption They know France and possibly Britain would like to form around the U S an array of constitutional governments against the dictators, and they do not want any of that either.

These opinions are so deep rooted that even the president himself, still riding the crest of his recent electoral wave probably could not successfully combat them if he chose to

Consequently you need not lie awake in expectation of any debt settlement or any alignment of constitutional governments

Note—No authority here believes France will make an acceptable offer or that serious negotiations will be undertaken altho some sort of token payments for December 15 may develop out of the present situation

Mr Garner has not taken a public stand on anything since he has been vice president That is he had not until he announced himself the other day in favor if his trusted Texas friend, Sam Rayburn as house leader

Behind that statement was a two year old repression which even the habitually repressive Mr Garner could no longer stand

It is still a matter of unpublished inside history that, two years ago, the vice president came up here to put Mr. Rayburn over as speaker at the suggestion of the white house This may be denied now but when the parties involved get around to telling all in their biographies they will confirm it What happened at the last minute to upset the plan is not yet clear but Garner kept out of the 1934 fight permitting the late Joe Byrns to win An excellent guess would be that what happened then was that a presidential liaison man erroneously informed President Roosevelt that Rayburn could not win It will not happen again

Some say Mr Garners indorsement of Rayburn was a matter of personal friendship Rayburn was his floor manager at the 1932 convention in Chicago Also he groomed Rayburn for this right by helping him into campaign headquarters as head of the speakers bureau during the last campaign after a senator had been selected for the job

A conclusive tip on how the administration stands however should be available today (Thursday) Senator Joe Duffey's Pennsylvania delegation was supposed to caucus before its grand victory ball Thursday A public indorsment of Rayburn would furnish just about all the proof anyone needs of what the white house wants

An advance check by sources friendly to Rayburn indicates all but two of the delegation may swing to him

These leadership fights do not catch the public eye They usually are settled by trival political deals for the appointment of henchmen to important posts of honor and power in the house This time the dealing has just begun so it is impossible to tell just what will come out of it

However Mr Guffey might reasonably expect to get the selection of a whip of the house Congressman Lea of California would naturally be chosen to succeed Rayburn as chairman of the interstate commerce committee

Congressman O Connor if defeated would retain chairmanship of the house rules committee

Gus Gennerich was more than a bodyguard to the president He was two strong legs a human shield and a completely unselfish devotee

You have often heard of loyal subjects who would be glad to lay down their lives for their leader but you may not have seen very many Perhaps there are a dozen or more around here who would do it, if they had to, but none would have been glad to do it, except Gus That was his job He always thrust his barrel chest in front of the president on any occasion which might possibly be construed as dangerous and he gloried in doing it He would not permit anyone else to do it

Inside the white house he was the unofficial ruler of the secret service a friend of all the family including the children a watchful eye which reported everything and reported it Others will take his place but not replace him

Presidential Secretary Early will probably not go with that movie outfit on Jan 1 but may take a job with a nationally known news service at a salary reputed to be $40 000 per annum

HOLLYWOOD. - Husbands," said John Barrymore meditatively "husbands don't like to be dominated That's why so many marriages fail That's why mine will last Elaine is a very clever girl She knows I dislike domineering women. She lets me have my own way -up to a point" Barrymore has high expectations from his fourth marital union, with the former Elaine Barrie

"I'm happier and more relaxed now than I've been for years Elaine's a grand companion She's a very vital person and actively interested in everything that goes on. Also, she has a sense of humor In spite of that, she married me So she must be rather a good egg."

The actor's recipe for happy marriage is "put yourself in the other person's place" He is doing more than that for his wife He is putting her into a one-act French play, "Minuet," in which they will tour the country following completion of Barrymore's current film assignment in "Maytime." The plot concerns two French aristocrats who die together on the guillotine

"Elaine is very easy to act with I have to watch my step with her That's what makes it such fun. When I tell her to do something she says, why? And if my reasons are unconvincing, she won't do it She has great character That's why I noticed her in the first place A negative from a girl is kind of rare and amusing if it is not stretched too far"

Should the marriage fail to jell the Barrymores will waste little time in regrets or attempted reconciliation. "When people find they don't fit, they should divorce immediately, even tho they are just married" Reluctantly leaving the subject of his wife, Barrymore took time out to dispel some of the mystery surrounding Garbo with whom he last appeared in "Grand Hotel"

Garbo Is Real.

"She's a very real person extremely intelligent and has earned a reputation for silence because she doesn't bother with silly small talk. It takes courage to be silent when you've nothing to say And she's very kind. During 'Grand Hotel' she learned that I photograph better on one side of my face. I arrived on the set one day to find her rearranging the furniture so I could be photographed on the best side of my pan"

Less comprehensible were Barrymore's comments on Jeanette MacDonald—"Maytime's" leading lady "She has a prophylactic personality," he stated, adding, "she reminds me of a mouth-wash" Director George Cukor and Edmund Goulding rank high in the Barrymore rating. "Cukor is the best director in the business Goulding has an amazing understanding of feminine psychology I've never yet met a woman including Garbo with whom he didn't get on well"

Since his marriage, Barrymore has seen little and heard less from Sister Ethel or Brother Lionel "We are a very casual family, except when we're in trouble—or want to murder someone" The Barrymores John sees most of—and prefers—are John, jr, and Dolores Mae, children of his marriage to Dolores Costello Barrymore.

"John's an amazing little boy. Not afraid of anything He burnt the inside of his mouth recently—and didn't whimper. He'll be an actor when he grows up—if he has any sense. My daughter, too." also, the offspring—if any—of his latest union "Elaine is crazy to have children Why not?" During their vaudeville tour, the Barrymores will make several broadcasts.

"English audiences are the best in the world" stated Barrymore "And I'd have fun showing London to Elaine It was in London that I was cured of shyness I used to suffer terribly at parties until an Englishman told me 'say to yourself—I'm as good as everyone else in the room' I tried it, it didn't work Then I met a beautiful, sophisticated English jane She cured me"

Albert Edward Wiggam Doctor of Science

Author's note Answers are from the scientific viewpoint Not all moral questions can be answered with absolute scientific accuracy, but no decision as to what is morally right is possible without science Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals

1 Yes women want security more than men do Most of them feel they are living in a man's world and when they secure a fairly safe footing in that world they fear to disturb it They are afraid if they make a move they will lose out altogether Of course another reason more women do not struggle for promotion is that many of them expect to marry and quit struggling—except with their husbands

2 Did you ever see a man tear off his coat, punch his fist thru his new straw hat and yell himself hoarse over anything in a crowd of 20 or 100 people? Yet in a crowd of 50 000 such behavior is normal when a man's favorite player parks the pill in the bleachers Any public speaker knows that the larger the audience the less intelligent and more imaginative they become The individual loses his individuality and identifies his emotions aims and wishes with that of the crowd which is little short of a huge emotional animal Hitler and Mussolini understand this perfectly

3 Not the chronic worriers A leading consulting psychologist says he always asks the people who come to him with their worries if they know precisely what they are worrying about and their answers lead off into vague dreads, half expressed fears and the like One woman said to me the other day "I would give the world if I only knew what it is I am afraid of or what I am worrying about I am just in a state of general worry and terror" Millions of people are in just this state of mind Such people are rarely worried about the real practical problems of life—in fact the chief cure is to get their minds on some practical worries.

NEW YORK—The most easily found occupational niche in the metropolis is "pearl diving"—or dish washing. There is always a lack of dishwashers as the "Help Wanted" columns reveal And no one remains a dishwasher any length of time

It is, as a rule the last job a man will take and the first he will desert when something better comes along It is estimated there are 15,000 new dishwashers going to work every morning in the greater metropolis And few remain more than two weeks

The task requires no apprenticeship and thousands turn to it when other avenues appear closed Many now famous New Yorkers served time in some obscure and dingy restaurant to stave off starvation The pay is often meals, a place to sleep and $5 a week

Another advantage in "pearl diving" for those who think no fault of their own reach the low rung is the obscurity No one ever sees a dish washer Incidentally, two fast selling novels and a book of poems have been written by those bridging lean interludes in this lowly task

They are alert, capable and never have trouble getting jobs They are the boys found at the flossy Florida resorts Those Florida jobs incidentally are most prized of all

Park so far as implying swank goes holds the same sway in popular thought as 5th avenue did up until about five years ago But the reign will probably not be so long Fifth was able for 15 years to resist the crawling cheap john invaders But in three years time that part of Park that lies in the 40's has gone almost wholly commercial not cheaply so however At the moment the ventures are strictly rue de la Paix There are no gaudy signs that tail spinned the avenue But that phase will come No street seems able to duck the despoilers—not even famed Camps Elysees, now gone five-and-ten and bankrupt salesy.

M'LEMORE

The Colonel's Birthday Is a Total Flop

BY HENRY M'LEMORE.

MOONEY'S POINT, FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UP). This is my birthday (I won't tell you how old I am, but when the candles were lighted on the cake it made one think of a forest fire) and I suppose I should be happy, carefree, and running 'rouble the table singing:

"Happy birthday dear Henry happy birthday to you."

But I'm not. I'm mad. I'm indignant. I'm hurt. In fact, I'm sorer'n hell.

Wednesday in Daytona Beach, I picked up a Miami Herald and there covering a full page, was an advertisement announcing the winter opening the Hollywood Kennel club, which I knew to be the finest dog track in the world. The ad said the fastest mutts on earth would race in the inaugural, and that they would pursue the handsomest rabbit, a full-bred cottontail with knee action arches.

Five minutes later I was in my car and, foot pressed to the floorboard, lit out for the Hollywood. My reputation was at stake. For the past two years I have won the cup awarded annually to the congenial idot who loses most consistently on Florida dog tracks. Three legs are necessary for permanent possession of the cup, and I didn't want to lose a single night of any Florida dog meeting.

As I whirled down the highway, with the orange, celery and grapefruit trucks missing me by inches, I could hear the money in my pocket imploring me to hurry, hurry.

"Get going, get going," it said. "Step on it, papa, or else we'll miss that first race and your chance to lose some of us on a fat fox terrier with flat feet will be gone."

Race Missed; Money Won.

I knew the money told the truth. A race missed was money won, not to mention precedents shattered. As the only man not to win money on the dogs since Rin Tin Tin passed to his reward (his reward, I have learned from a confidental source, consisted of two hambones, rampant on a field of pine trees) I could not afford to miss a race.

You can imagine my joy then, when at 8 o'clock, 15 minutes before the post time for the first race, skidded to a stop in the parking lot and made for the mutuel window.

"Let me have," I said to the Jesse James descendant behind the grill, "a ticket on Happy Memories in the first."

"No dice," he said.

"Not so sure as dice." I laughed with that infections laugh of mine, "but let me have the ticket just the same."

"There's no betting tonight," he answered. "The racing commission says we can't."

"Well," I asked, "what are the other 20,000 customers out here for. I know the purpose of this track is to improve the breed, and lift the canine standard very high, but still I imagine they came out here to bet."

Then he told me the sad story. The dog racing commission, which is composed of the type of men you would expect to find on a dog racing commission (and if you don't know the type I will tell you they are the type of men who could not make the boxing commission socially) had called off the opening night without giving notice.

The reason was very technical. That is technical for a dog racing commission. At 7 o'clock the opening night, one of the commissioners suddenly discovered he could read a calendar.

Naturally this came in the nature of a bombshell, and after a motion had been failed to throw him out on the ground that he was a ringer, the commissioner in question explained the Hollywood track already had enjoyed its nine legal days of racing in 1936, and must wait one more day to fall into the 1937 calendar, or, as he explained it, fiscal year.

"I'm not going to try to explain this further. My only interest in the matter, as I explained earlier, lay in the fact that it cost me ten bucks; I go to the tracks to lose. I pride myself on being the next to wrongest guy on bets in the United States. The No. 1 man, as far as I can figure by calculations which even include the moon and high tides, is Chick Endor, the international singer of songs. Mr. Endor was the man, as you will remember, who bet that Rome was built in a day, and offered 10 to 1 that he was right.

BIBLE FACES PROBLEM REPLACING THREE MEN IN HUSKER BACKFIELD

Cardwell, Francis, Douglas Lost—B Team Awards to 10 Performers.

50 MEN ON AWARD LIST

BY WALTER E. DOBBINS.

Twenty-one major, 10 minor and 19 "B" team football letters, the largest total since 1931, will be presented to members of the 1936 Cornhusker grid squad, the committee on awards announced Thursday morning.

The major letter winners include five ends, four tackles, four guards, two centers and six backs. Seven awards went to seniors—Sam Francis, Lloyd Cardwell, Virgil Yelkin, Kenneth McGinnis, Ron Douglas, Lester McDonald and Jack Ellis. Dick Fischer was rewarded with a minor sweater.

Minor awards go to: Bill Andreson, Arthur Ball, Bill Callihan, Dick Fischer, Perry Franks, Bill Herrman, Jack Hutcherson, Thurston Phelps, George Seeman and Ernie White.

B team letters will be issued to the following: George Belders, Joe Beveridge, Paul Baumann, Rolyne Boschult, Asher Brown, Bill Cline, Bob Elliott, Gene Franz, Lloyd Grimm, Carl Heinz, Jack Mercier, Phil Naviaux, John Priest, Bob Ray, George Rosen, Eddie Sauer, Bernie Smith, Kenneth Shindo and William Sawtell.

Many Got to Play.

"We felt that we were fortunate in being able to use more boys this season than in several years and the 50 men who will receive letters got to play quite a bit of football," Coach Bible commented.

Bible's troubles, however, will begin this spring when he starts seeking backfield replacements for Sam Francis, Lloyd Cardwell and Ron Douglas, all first stringers, who with Johnny Howell made up one of the finest quartets of ball carriers in Nebraska U football history.

McDonald and Yelkin, first team ends, will graduate but with Paul Amen, Johnny Richardson and Elmer Dohrmann back along with a trio of freshmen prospects, the wings should be well protected. Ken McGinnis' place in the line probably will go to Gus Peters who played some excellent ball this fall in the middle of the line.

Out of the group of 10 minor letter winners, Fischer is the lone senior.

BIG ROW EXPECTED AS A. A. U. HEADS CONVENE

Mahoney Is Primed to Fight Walsh for Presidency of Group.

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP). The vanguard of amateur athletic union conventioneers came to Houston Thursday while sideline observers watched for the first break in intramural battles.

Altho Avery Brundage, slated to retire as president of the AAU, was expected to make a keynote speech for peace in Friday's inaugural session, warfare threatened in at least four sectors.

Likeliest spot for controversy was the general one of management of the American Olympic team. Branching off from this inclusive subject were those involving the dismissal of Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett and the post-Olympic suspension of Jesse Owens.

Another danger spot was the probable election fight between Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who stepped out as AAU prexy when he lost his crusade to keep America out of the Olympics, and Patrick J. Walsh, AAU, vice president.

Convention delegates who opposed American participation in the Berlin games because of alleged nazi oppression of Jews were expected to have comment to make upon the dropping of two Jewish runners, Marty Glickman and Sam Stoller, from the American 400-meter relay team.

Battle in Prospect.

Altho officials say that there is nothing in the convention agenda which would admit a rehash of the Olympic participation debate, some of them, Mahoney included, admit that somebody might sound off, getting the battle under way.

Such a battle might start from a mention of the firing of Mrs. Jarrett because she drank more champagne than the team officials believed proper while enroute to Berlin. It might come from questioning the case of triple-champion Jesse Owens, barred from amateur competition after he refused to go on an European barn-storming trip arranged at his request.

Altho he may be on the receiving end of verbal slaps, Brundage should have a neat position. He has indicated he is not a candidate for re-election and he holds a membership in the international Olympic committee, a greater sports honor than any of his friends or foes can boast.

TERRY HOLDS KEY TO DIZ DEAN SITUATION

Comiskey Reported to Want Higgins From A's—Feller Case Is Topic.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

MONTREAL, Que. (UP). The leading roles on the baseball stage were accorded Thursday to silver haired Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Bill Terry, pilot of the New York Giants, and J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox.

Landis arrived from Chicago to address the gathering of minor leaguers at their 35th annual convention, bringing with him the unsolved Bob Feller case. The commission holds the answer to baseball's most baffling question: Whether Feller, 19 year old pitching sensation, belongs to the Cleveland Indians, or his signing violated a rule that will make him a free agent.

It is unlikely that Landis will announce his decision until after the major league meetings in New York next week.

Terry, who is 48 hours overdue, holds the key to trading activities in the National league. If and when he shows up, Terry may start the ball rolling on several deals. The Dizzy Dean trade is at a standstill after the Cardinals' refusal of $200,000 cash from the Cincinnati Reds for the garrulous pitching ace.

President Horace Stoneham refuses to discuss Dizzy Dean except in a joking vein. "We'll give a quarter for Dean, that's all," Stoneham said laughingly. But Terry, a shrewd trader who got the best of Branch Rickey last year in the Roy Parmelee-Burgess Whitehead deal, is expected to make Rickey come down to earth if he really wants to trade Dean. The Giants definitely want Dean to regain favor iwth New York fans as a result of their shellacking at the hands of the Yankees in the world series.

Three clubs are seeking Outfielder Hank Leiber. Cincinnati seems to have the inside track for the big Giant patrolman, with Brooklyn and the Cubs also in the bidding.

Comiskey, who arrived Wednesday night, is in a position to swing deals for the up and coming Chicago White Sox for the first time in 16 years. The White Sox need a third baseman and will bid heavily for Pinky Higgins of the Athletics. Outfielder Rip Radcliff is one of the players who will be offered to Connie Mack for Higgins.

Another deal the Sox have on tap is Pitcher Johnny Whitehead to Detroit for Pitcher Jake Wade and Outfielder Chet Laabs, last year with Milwaukee. A couple of the right kind of deals might make the White Sox a serious pennant contender.

The world champion New York Yankees apparently will stand pat as Manager Joe McCarthy left Wednesday night without entering into any player negotiations.

THE HUMAN SALAMANDER. On the 12th day of October, 1926, Mr. Mason, who was foreman at the American Refining company's plant on North McMasters street, Amarilla, Tex., at 10 o'clock at night, reached up to remove a bit of paper from the automatic feeder of the company's 190 furnace. In the dim light he did not see the approach of the pony that supports the cable. This pony caught him and doubled him up partly over and partly under it, and dragged him its full length thru 16 sections, each containing two burners in full blast on each side. After two minutes in the fiery furnace, he came out badly burned, and is alive today, after spending 11 months in the hospital.

THE MONUMENT TO A HAYSTACK. The haystack monument marks the spot where, during an August thunderstorm, a prayer meeting took refuge under a haystack in the field, resulting in the organization of the first foreign and home mission in America. The organizers were Samuel J. Mills, jr., and four of his classmates of Williams college.

The haystack monument was a gift of Senator Rice of Ohio in 1867.

Yost Stresses Importance Being Able Take Defeat in Proper Way

Says Punt Hardest Play in Football, Makes or Breaks Teams.

Pointing out the value of all athletics in developing respect, confidence and character; the friendships arising from contacts in sports, and the relationship of victory and defeat, Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at Michigan U. gave his philosophy of life and football in his address at the annual Cornhusker football banquet at the University club Wednesday night.

"We all love to be winners, but many of us must learn to be good losers," he said. "No one should be satisfied with a loser, but it is important how we act in defeat."

Yost, who has spent 45 years in athletics, 36 of them at Michigan and 21 as head football coach of Wolverine teams, coached at Nebraska in 1898.

Four Vets Present.

Four members of his Husker team were present: H. M. Garrett, M. E. Gilbert, H. A. Tuckey and Ralph Drain. Yost, during the course of his talk, recalled many interesting incidents of his one year term as Cornhusker mentor.

Speaking at random Yost pointed out the appeal that football has to the American people and commented on the failure of such English sports as rugby and cricket to reach popularity in this country.

"Blocking is the basis of all offense; tackling is the basis of defense," Yost declared. "The lateral pass is as old as the ages. It comes from rugby; in fact, the only three important things in football that rugby doesn't have are blocking, downs and the forward pass.

"The hardest play in football is the punt," he added. "In nearly every important game a kick enters into the final outcome. Often it is a poor punt, a blocked punt or the brilliant return of a kick that turns defeat into victory.

Rule Under Fire.

"Right now there is a lot of talk about interference on the forward pass; the fans think something should be done about it. Most people don't know the rules; they don't know that all 11 defensive men and the five eligible receivers all have a right to play for the ball. It will come before our rules committee no doubt, but I can't see where we can help the defense. The pass is a big part of the offense in football but possibly the penalty is a little too severe."

Yost was introduced by Coach Henry Schulte who was a member of the Michigan athletic head's "point a minute" team at Ann Arbor in the early 1900's.

John Curtiss, chairman of the club football committee, presented Max Towle, toastmaster, who, in turn, introduced Coaches Bible and Schulte. Jean Kinder, president of the University club, presented each member of the Cornhusker squad with the club football medal. Fullback Sam Francis responded for the varsity.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR JACKSON HIGH QUINT

Four Regulars of Last Year's State Meet Runnerup Team Available.

The Juniors and Seniors will clash in the finals of the annual interclass basketball tournament at Jackson high Friday afternoon, having disposed of the Freshman and Sophomores 11 to 4 and 17 to 12 respectively, Wednesday afternoon to gain the finals.

Most coaches would be glad to be in Coach Merritt Robson's shoes this season, with four of his regulars from last year's state runnerup championship club back. However, even with this and several promising reserves, Robson is keeping his "It looks bad" attitude, left over from the football season which found his eleven undefeated, untied, and unscored upon.

Robson will put on the floor a team that will average over six feet tall, with Harold Owen, five feet eleven, the shortest member. Don Fitz and Kenny Smith will be at the forwards, and Bus Knight at center.

Owen, who stood back and let his running mate, Harry Pitcaithley score most of the points last year is due to take over the running guard job. Owen, a good shot at any angle, is fast and a clever floor man.

The lad to complete this fivesome is yet a question. Robson says he "doesn't wish to be quoted on who it will be" and stated that the job is still wide open. Rumors have it, however, that Bob Garey is the most likely candidate.

Promising reserves coming up include Ray Rhoades, Ralph Bowmaster, Paul Strom, Neal Allen, and Russ Derr, forwards; Bill Ruyle, center; and Walt Foster, Jim Owen and Darrell Gunn, guards. Leo Hansen and Waldo Winters have been showing up in recent workouts, both being freshmen. Hansen is a forward, and Winters a guard.

A week from Friday, if arrangements can be made Robson will give fans their first view of his 1936-37 team against the Alumni.

HUSKIES INVITE TEAM.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP). University of Washington football officials said Thursday a formal invitation had been extended to a team to play the Huskies in the Rose Bowl, and that acceptance of the bid was awaited. No information was given as to the identity of the invited team.

NEBRASKA HAS CLEAN SWEEP OF LEAGUE'S HONORS 1936 SEASON

Cardwell Yields Tie to Red Elder But Rest All Go to Scarlet Squad.

FRANCIS CLOSE BEHIND

KANSAS CITY. (AP). The Nebraska Cornhuskers, in sweeping their way to the Big Six football championship, left few crumbs in the way of minor honors for their conference rivals.

The Nebraskans, in addition to setting a new scoring record for conference games of 131 points against none for opponents, scored the two men tied for the scoring and non-conference games, had the best defensive record for all games, had the individual scoring leader for all games, and one of thme two men tied for the scoring lead in conference games only.

Scoring six touchdowns in conference games and two in non-conference contests, Lloyd Cardwell, Nebraska's galloping halfback, was individual scoring champion for both conference and non-conference games with 48 points. Cardwell only played in eight games, missing the Missouri game because of injuries.

His 36 conference points were good for a tie for scoring honors for conference games only. Maurice "Red" Elder, Kansas State's fine fullback, was the other 36 point man, the total representing his profit for the season. The scoring leaders, with conference, non-conference and total points:

GLOOMY GIL REPORTED ON WAY TO RECOVERY

BOSTON. (UP). Gilmour "Gloomy Gil" Dobie, 57, believed to have coached more winning teams in his 34 year career than any other mentor in college football history, apaepred Thursday to be winning a game fight for life.

A slight improvement was reported at City hospital in the condition of both Dobie, since last February head coach at Boston college, and his assistant, Frank R. Murdock, 25, of Natrona Heights, Pa., both critically injured early Wednesday when their automobile crashed into a railroad overpass upright.

Their condition was reported "fair," but doctors believed they would recover. They spent a "fairly comfortable" night.

Y MITT TEAM TAKES C.Y.O. IN DUAL MEET

Bud Wolfe Defeated in Top Bout of Program as Miegel Winner.

Harold Matthews' Y. M. C. A. boxers poured a steady stream of leather into a team of C. Y. O. opponents Wednesday night in the Y gym, but Henry Aguirre's lads hammered most of it right back tho taking a 10 to 5 whipping. Featured by Linus Shipps' decision over Bud Wolfe, Y. M. C. A. champion, and Charley Miegel's craftmanship in disposing of plucky Elmer Showalter, it was a peppery affair all the way, altho the Y held a 6 to 0 lead after the first four bouts on the ten event card.

Miegel rattled a tattoo of left hooks in Showalter's face and ribs and went to work like a trip-hammer from in close, but Elmer landed a few punches at intervals to prove it was no walkaway. Charley cut loose in the last round and the bell saved Showalter, who weathered Miegel's clearly superior attack creditably until the last heat.

While Elmer's left handed brother Lloyd was losing a tough technical knockout to methodical Johnny Rieley in the last three seconds for the lone C. Y. O. kayo, Shipps and Wolfe were setting a terrific pace in the fastest match of the evening. Shipps landed too many uppercuts on the Y's pride and joy, and altho he tired a little in the last round he kept boring in and Bud missed too many swings, dropping a close decision.

Henry Jacoby of the Y was the quickest winner, flooring Bill Robatham in a little over a minute for the only knockout of the evening. Gail Haner of the Y practically had to slash Gene Chevalier to bits for a decision in the opening bout, blackening his eye with a flood of smashes in the first round but weakening in the last two. SENIOR QUINTET MOVES TO INTERCLASS FINALS

The Lincoln high interclass basketball tourney produced one finalist Wednesday afternoon when the Senior "B" quintet romped over the Junior "B" five 21 to 4, with Stuart setting the pace. The other team to compete in the finals will be either the Sophomore "A" or Junior "A" fives, who battled to an 18 to 18 draw Wednesday. A five minute extra period affair between the two will be held before the final game Thursday afternoon, the winner playing Senior "B" for the title.

CHAMPION JAYHAWKS FIRST BIG SIX QUINT SEE SERIOUS ACTION

Phog Allen's Crew Opening Against Washburn on Lawrence Court.

HUSKERS ARE AMBITIOUS

KANSAS CITY. (AP). With fans still verbally punting the late football season back and forth, basketball will make its season's debut in the Big Six Friday night when the champion Kansas Jayhawkers meet Washburn college at Lawrence.

The game, which is the first of a heavy non-conference schedule for Big Six teams, will serve as a guinea pig for another experiment by Dr. F. C. "Phog" Allen, Jayhawk coach who is chairman of the research committee of the national basketball rules committee. The baskets will be equipped with triggers which flash a light every time a goal is scored, the idea being to eliminate argument as to whether a ball went thru the hoop.

The Jayhawks have five games scheduled this month. Allen starts the campaign with seven lettermen, but he lost three regulars—Ray Ebling, Milton Allen and Francis Kappelman—from his fine 1936 quintet, indicating a possibility the coming conference campaign may be a sextet instead of a solo.

Iowa State opens its campaign Friday night when it meets Central at Ames. Coach Louis Menze has five lettermen, including Captain Jack Flemming. The Cyclones will play three games this month.

Scarlet to be Busy.

Coach W. Harold Browne's big Nebraskans, who finished second last year, have the heaviest schedule in the conference this year. They open Dec. 11 against South Dakota at Vermillion, but thereafter they are all business. They conclude a pre-conference schedule of ten games Jan. 2, the program including a trip to the eastern seaboard. The Husker outlook is fairly bright, despite the fact men like Henry Whitaker, George Wahlquist and Harvey Widman, lost by graduation, can't be replaced overnight.

Frank Root will send his Kansas State quintet into action for the first time Dec. 8 against Fort Hays State. The Wildcats also face a tough December schedule, with seven games listed before Jan. 1. Root will take his squad on a tour of Big Ten territory, including Indiana, a hotbed of the cage sport. Indiana, Carleton college and Minnesota are included among the opponents. Root has six lettermen as a foundation for his team, the veterans including Frank Groves, all conference center, and Allen Burns, a classy forward.

Oklahoma will open Dec. 12 against Wichita university. Three games are definitely on the December program for the Sooners, with the possibility of games with Rice and the University of Mexico. Coach Hugh McDermott has seven lettermen, including a trio of last season's regulars.

George Edwards take his Missiouri cagers to St. Louis university for their opener Dec. 8. Edwards has six lettermen, but will lose Carmin Henderson, towering guard, before the conference campaign starts. Henderson's eligibility term expires Jan. 1.

MIDLAND CAGERS MEET WAYNE QUINT TUESDAY

FREMONT, Neb.—Midland college's first basketball game will send the Warriors against the Wayne Wildcats, champions of the N. I. A. A., at Wayne Tuesday. Efforts are also being made to book a game with Morningside or Yankton on the same trip. Coach Eggebrecht also hopes to schedule one or two games for the week of Dec. 14-18.

Of the freshman candidates, Irvin Peterson, Creston; Leonard Schultz, Rhinelander, Wis.; Gilbert Echtenkamp, Arlington; Vernon Benson, Wause; Stuart Bailey and Roman Makousky, Minneapolis, and Paul deFreese, Fremont, have looked best to date.

NEW YORK (AP) The stock market climbed over numerous question marks and retrieved fractions to a point or more of its recent losses. Foreign complications were still plentiful, but domestic business optimism, brokers said, was an inspiration for the recovery trend.

There were a few backward issues near the fourth hour altho aircrafts, steels and many other pivotal stocks were well out in front. Low priced shares took a back seat for a change. The activity was comparatively small.

Prominent stock gainers included Wright Aeronautical, Douglas, Sperry, Boeing, U S Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Interlake Iron, Follansbee Bros, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, American Telephone, International Paper & Power preferred, Postal Telegraph preferred, Anaconda, International Nickel, DuPont, Goodrich, U S Rubber, Santa Fe, N Y Central, New Haven, Pullman, American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive, American Car & Foundry, Paramount, Loew's and Pathe.

Schenley voted an extra dividend of 75 cents, but the issue was only a shade ahead. Also in a narrow range were Chrysler, General Motors, Western Union, Consolidated Edison Radio, Standard Oil of N J, Westinghouse, General Electric, Goodyear and Southern Pacific. Baldwin Locomotive dropped more than a point.

Prime interest was shown by the board rooms in the British cabinet crisis concerning reported marriage plans of the king but stocks did not seem to be particularly disturbed by this development. Securities in London and Paris, tho, were highly nervous.

A decrease of ½ cent an ounce in the New York imported bar silver rate apparently had little effect upon the mining shares.

Traders were inclined to go lightly on most motor stocks in view of the labor situation in this industry. At the same time it was noted President Sloan of General Motors said from all present signs as many automobiles will be turned out in 1937 as in the record year of 1929.

The setback in Baldwin Locomotive, a strong performer in the past several sessions, followed disclosure warrant holders who were preparing to exercise purchase rights of a company in reorganization would be unable to do so because of the necessity of court permission for any increase in the concern's stock.

Growing world armament programs again brought some of the aviation shares into favor. Not only are the war plane manufacturers looking for additional larger orders from European countries but expansion of domestic military defense preparations brought visions of greater demand from this source.

Foreign Markets at a Glance

LONDON (AP) The stock market continued unsettled, selling being brought about by the uncertainty concerning the king's marriage intentions. Many issues rallied from their lows when supporting orders came into the market. Home rails were heavy, declining on an average of one point and the industrial group also declined, especially steels, shipping shares, tobaccos and rayons. Trans-Atlantic issues moved higher while gilt edged securities and European bonds remained quiet and steady.

PARIS—A generally firm tone prevailed in the bourse with rentes closing at net gains of 30 to 65 centimes. Bank of France stock moved 100 francs higher and Royal Dutch advanced 22 francs on the day. Canadian Pacific finished unchanged at 295 francs.

LIVERPOOL—Active liquidation took place in the wheat market following the announcement of the removal of minimum prices by the Argentine government. Milling was also absent. A partial rally occurred at the close and prices finished with losses of 1 to 2 pence. Cotton futures closed 5 to 6 points lower on [illegible] ing, somewhat unsettled owing to the king's marriage intentions. Hedging in sympathy with easiness of the Egyptian market met commission house buying.

GRAIN NOTES.

CHICAGO (AP) [illegible] Miller of James E Bennett & Co said he believed the country will market corn little more freely on the advance. Eastern sections he said are offering a little corn to arrive but outside markets are overbid by Chicago in the central territory.

The future of agricultural economies said indications were that wheat prices will remain high during the winter due to a heavy movement from the south in hemisphere.

Attention was called by market authorities to the fact that 27 000 bushels of soy beans delivered on December contracts Tuesday already has been canceled for shipment.

SHARP UPTURNS MADE BY WHEAT AT CLOSE

Prices Finish 3-4 to 1 1-4 Higher—Corn Unchanged to 3-4 Lower

CHICAGO (AP) Late upturns Thursday lifted Chicago wheat prices to more than 2 cents a bushel above early bottom levels. Offerings of wheat and rye became scarce after early selling was absorbed, and December wheat as well as December rye reached new top price records for the season. Estimates were current that probable wheat needs of importing countries this season would be more than 50 000 000 bushels larger than last season.

Wheat closed firm ¾@1¼ cents over Wednesday's finish, Dec $1.25¼@⅜, May $1.20⅞@1.21, corn unchanged to ¾ lower, Dec $1.07½@⅝, May new $1.02½@⅝, oats ⅛ off to ¼ up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

The transient weakness of Chicago grain values traders said had its source largely in more than 3 cents break suffered by the Liverpool wheat market. To a great degree this break was in turn attributed to discontinuance of Argentine official minimum quotations on wheat and other products. Leading market experts in Chicago, however, regarded the abolition of Argentine minimum prices as ultimately bullish because implying confidence that Argentine's crop would be readily disposed of without help from any artificial prop.

Something of a recovery at the close of the Liverpool wheat market gave aid to the relative firmness of Chicago prices. Talk was current that a good deal of Liverpool selling of wheat futures appeared due to disappointment of recent purchasers who had bought on account of mistaken belief that a new and higher minimum price standard would be established by the Argentine government. Assertions were also made in various quarters that some setback of world wheat prices was to be expected following recent persistent record breaking advances.

Corn, oats and rye developed comparative firmness sooner than wheat did. Shortage of feedstuffs, especially the small supplies of corn at terminal centers gave more or less backbone to the corn market in particular. Provisions were weakened by heavy liquidation of lard holdings, a result of enlargement of stocks on hand in Chicago and elsewhere.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP). Swine values rose sharply in instances as supplies continued to contract. Packers now are paying the highest December prices for hogs in ten years excepting last year when the processing tax was included in the cost.

The market was steady to 15c higher and in early dealings top rose to $10.25, highest price in 2 months. Traders said the principal stimulating factor was the decline in receipts altho there were reports that packers were storing pork in freezers and also buying pork from smaller Chicago plants for this purpose.

The cattle run was cut below the level of trade requirements again and as a result all buying interests were active, bidding strong prices for fed steers and yearlings and fully steady quotations for all other classes. The steer top of $12.35 was paid for 1 283 pound averages.

Lambs were mostly steady, top holding at $8.75, the lowest peak since early in October. Wholesale beef carcass and pork loin prices were unchanged.

HELD IN LIQUOR THEFT

Omahan Arrested at Norfolk in Weber Case.

NORFOLK, Neb. (P). Preston Pitzer, 29, Omaha, arrested by Norfolk police, was taken to O'Neill to be charged with robbing the Frank Weber store, Atkinson, of about $300 worth of liquor the night of Nov. 23.

Police said they found in Pitzer's possession a quantity of liquor and an empty liquor carton bearing the name of Frank Weber, Atkinson, Neb. Weber, who accompanied Holt county authorities to Norfolk, identified the liquor as that stolen from his store. Pitzer has refused to make any statement. Thirty-three cases of liquor were stolen from the Weber store. Pitzer, police said, was arrested after he had sold some liquor at Humphrey.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS—BY EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS.

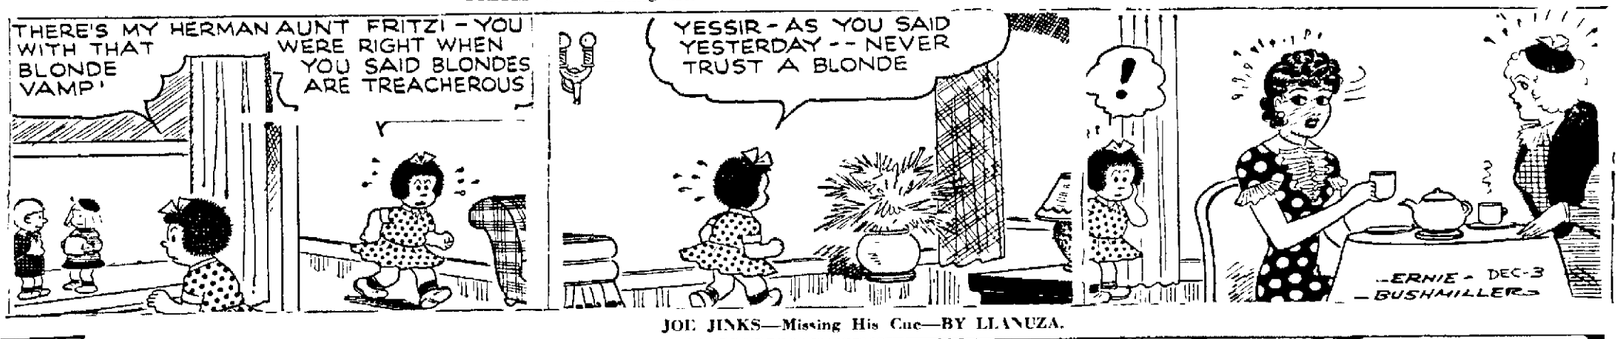

When Raglan beheld the strange procession, he crept back in the concealing pile of stones. His greedy heart was filled with exultation. It was plain that Tarzan and his friends were to be executed. Thus were the monsters disposing of his enemies! . . .

. . . During the Jungle Lord's imprisonment by the monsters of the Dead City, little Nkima had been disporting himself in the forest, enjoying the exalted position he occupied among the native monkey tribes as the special friend and companion of the mighty Tarzan.

At last, however, Nkima grew weary of play and decided to return to the restful camp which Tarzan had established. But when he arrived there he found the site deserted. The miserable foreboding that filled Nkima's heart quickly gave way to violent panic.

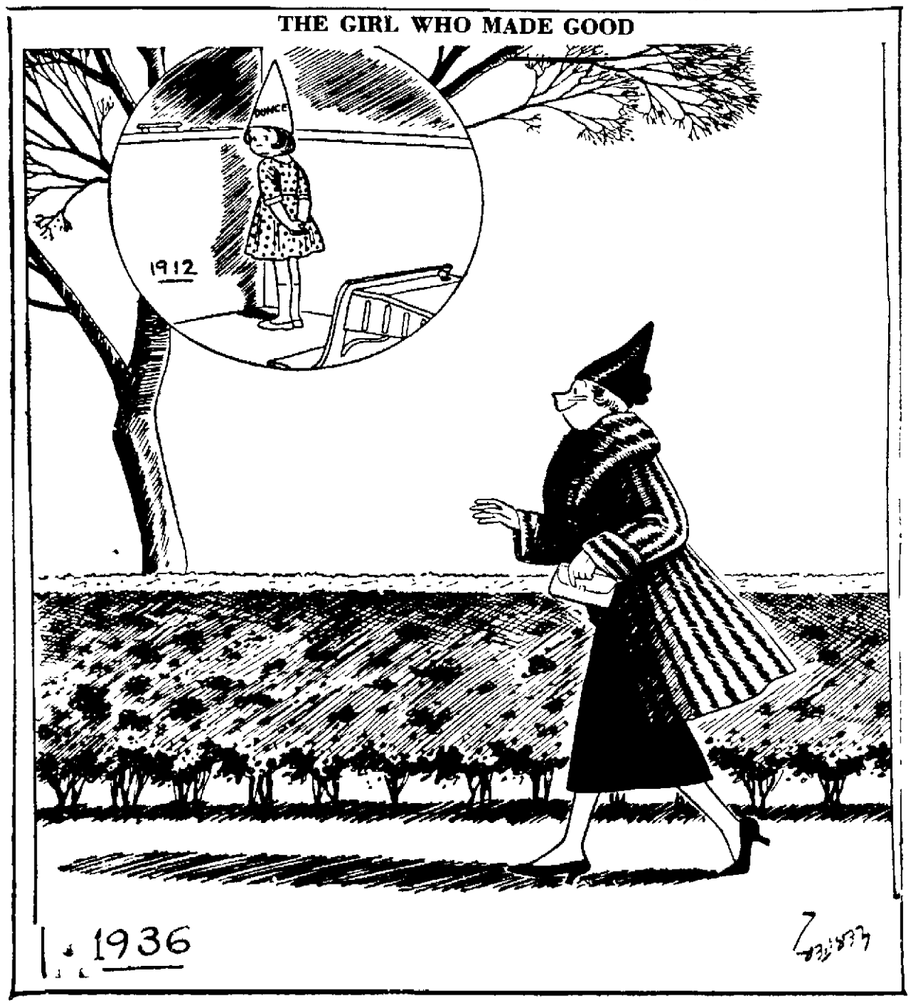

The little monkey scurried frantically, aimlessly thru the trees, running and leaping, his shrill voice lifted in a pitiful cry. "Tarzan! Tarzan! Where are you, Tarzan?" Suddenly from above him, came a mournful answer: "By now, Tarzan is dead!"
